

Beaver Island Emergency Services Authority
Public Statement regarding the Coronavirus (COVID-19) Pandemic
Last Updated: March 20, 2020

To Beaver Island full-time residents, seasonal residents, families, businesses, and visitors:

Beaver Island should not be considered a “safe haven” for those seeking to avoid the Coronavirus. On the contrary, Coronavirus cases are likely to occur on Beaver Island, and the consequences to those on the Island could be more devastating than in mainland locations with access to medical resources and supplies. The Island is home to numerous individuals with compromised immune systems, as well as many aging and elderly residents who are at greatest risk.

Coronavirus (COVID-19) has now been identified in most areas of the U.S., including northern Michigan. It is highly contagious, and is especially dangerous to those with compromised immune systems. As a result, health officials are discouraging travel of any kind, and local health providers strongly recommend against travel to Beaver Island. Beyond the imminent threat of exposure from those traveling in from other parts of the state and country, the Island lacks the medical resources and facilities necessary to provide care to those who may be affected

Unfortunately, this will impact the plans of those who normally return to Beaver Island in the spring, as well as family members wishing to visit Island relatives, and other visitors. Island residents may encounter a delay in obtaining essential supplies, and travel on or off the Island is discouraged. Our Island businesses and services are forced to take special precautions to limit potential exposure and transmission of illness.

For those who must travel to Beaver Island, including those residing on the Island who leave and plan to return, it is essential to take all of the following precautions for self-isolation:

- Abide by all COVID-19 precautions established by charter and commercial transportation companies serving Beaver Island.
- Avoid exposure to other persons at the airports, harbor/marina, and all other points of access. Avoid sharing vehicles and/or riding in others' vehicles, where the virus can easily be transmitted.
- Upon arrival, please plan to self-isolate by remaining on your private premises for no fewer than 14 days. Like elsewhere in Michigan, our food service establishments are unable to provide dine-in accommodations, by order of the Governor's Office, until COVID-19 precautions are lifted statewide. At time of this release Dalwhinnie and the Shamrock the are providing take-out and/or delivery service with limited hours. McDonough's Market, the Station and Power's Hardware remain open.
- If you have signs or symptoms of flu-like illness, including fever, cough, congestion, nausea, diarrhea, shortness of breath, and/or body aches and pains, consult your physician immediately and before any travel. Air and boat transportation providers serving Beaver Island have established COVID-19 response plans, and bide by all recommendations from CDC and local health officials. As always, all transportation to and from the island is dictated by the weather resulting in days when travel is just not possible.

The Beaver Island Rural Health Center will continue to operate. Anyone needing medical attention is asked to call the Health Center (231.448.2275) first, no walk-ins will be accepted. ALL patients will be evaluated over the phone by the provider with on-site visits scheduled for those with acute illnesses or urgent needs. Testing for COVID-19 is available for those presenting pertinent symptoms.

If you are returning to the Island, please follow the CDC guidelines and self-isolate for 14 days. After 14 days continue to practice social distancing, wash hands frequently, and avoid non-essential travel.

If you are already on Beaver Island and feel that you, or someone else in your family, party or household, are experiencing flu-like symptoms, remain isolated in place (i.e., in your home or cottage) and contact the Health Center for further instructions. Avoid contact with all other persons. If you experience an emergency requiring urgent medical attention and/or are in respiratory distress, call 9-1-1. Please alert the dispatcher if anyone in your party or household has flu-like symptoms so that EMS responders can don appropriate personal protective equipment before entering.

Travel and self-isolation precautions will remain in effect for Beaver Island until they are lifted statewide by health officials and state government.

We will update this statement periodically as appropriate.
