Welcome To The Edge!

Susan Freeman, Executive Director, At The New Visitor's Center

Come See Us At Our New Location! 500 Main Street In Tarboro

Step back in time as you stroll through the 45-block historic district of Tarboro. Spend time at the Princeville Heritage Museum with snap-shots of the first incorporated black community in America. Discover urban renewal in the Douglas Block in Rocky Mount., Grab your pole and lose yourself fishing or Paddle down the Tar River. Immerse yourself into our Civil War and heritage trails. Taste Eastern barbeque or savor fine dining at one of our nationally recognized restaurants. Spend time with friends at a microbrewery or pub.

From the first municipal pastured milk plant in the United States to the efforts of the local agricultural industry to saving honey bees; we have clean and green living in mind! Edgecombe County is just a short drive from Interstate 95; US Highway 64 easily connects to the coastal beaches and the Triangle. Local industries have discovered access to rail and proximity to major ports in Wilmington, Morehead City, and Norfolk, VA. If you are looking for a place that focusses on maintaining and preserving the world around you, then Edgecombe County is the perfect place for you.

Edgecombe County is home to many unique events, sports tournaments, and art exhibitions. Bring your picnic basket and enjoy family night listening to music or movie night on the Historic Town Common in Tarboro: the only recognized Colonial Town Common outside of the Boston Common. Shop locally owned boutiques. Take a ride and find treasures at antique and artisan stores peppered throughout the county while taking in the landscape of sweet potatoes and cotton fields.

Tarboro is a North Carolina Certified Retirement Community. Newcomers are captivated by the spirit of our quaint towns and friendly people. Edgecombe is a great place to live, whether you are looking for a country estate or a charming home in the historic district; there is something for every lifestyle.

We invite you to spend a day or stay a lifetime.

Looking forward to meeting you,

Susan Freeman,
Executive Director

THINGS To Do

Tarboro Town Common Since 1761

1860 Cotton Press

Town Common near Albemarle Avenue
The Cotton Press was moved to the Tarboro Town Common and was added to the National Register of Historic Places on February 18, 1971. The press is also known as the Norfleet Cotton Press from the original Norfleet Plantation. It was originally a cider and wine press.

Booker T. Washington Theater

Rocky Mount | 252-972-1266
This beautifully majestic theater is part of The Douglas Block Revitalization. It opened as the Savory Theater in 1929. After lying unused for many years, it was restored and reopened as a multi-purpose entertainment facility on April 28, 2011.

Calvary Episcopal Church & Churchyard

411 E. Church St. | 252-823-8192
www.CalvaryTarboro.org
This Gothic Revival church, designed by William Percival and completed in 1867, is among the most important antebellum Gothic churches in the state. The grounds contain both exotic and native trees, shrubs, and herbaceous plants, and are regarded regionally and beyond as a grand arboretum. Part of the Morton register of ArbNet-accredited arboreta.

BECAUSE YOU

DESERVE EXCEPTIONAL

HEALTH CARE

RIGHT HERE, CLOSE TO YOU

Being a true system of care means more than simply providing health care services. It means bringing better health and wellness directly to you, close to home.

In Tarboro and Edgecombe County, our multispecialty clinic provides access to the services you need, including cancer, rehabilitation, and obstetrics and gynecology.

Because our goal isn't just to treat disease, but to prevent it in the first place. And that improves the lives of everyone in eastern North Carolina.

Visit VidantHealth.com/Edgecombe to learn more. Or call 855-MY-VIDANT (1-855-698-4326) for an appointment with a doctor near you.

RELOCATION

The Coolmore Plantation

COMMUNITY REFERENCE

BATTLEBORO: Named for James Smith Battle, the businessman who helped finance the construction of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad during the 1880s, Battleboro is nestled in the middle of the rural countryside. St. John's Episcopal Church, built in 1891, remains one of the oldest structures in Battleboro and one you should not miss visiting.

CONETOE: Conetoe is a charming community located in Southeastern Edgecombe County along the Conetoe Creek. History finds itself restored in the plantation homes of the Wilkinson-Dozier House and the Worsley-Burnette House, both on the National Register of Historic Places. The Wilkinson-Dozier House, built around 1815, is a two-story, three bay by two bay, Federal style frame dwelling. The Worsley-Burnette House, built around 1830, is a two-story Federal style frame dwelling with a hall-and-parlor plan. You'll find national recognition in the farm fields and church pulpit. Conetoe is proud to be home of Rev. Richard Joyner, pastor of Conetoe Missionary Baptist Church, and the Conetoe Family Life Center. Rev. Joyner was recognized as a 2015 CNN Top 10 Hero for his work in establishing the center and making Conetoe the heart of a national movement to promote healthy living. The Conetoe Family Life Center brings together students and community members to grow and distribute 50,000 pounds of fresh food a year. You are invited to visit, support, and contribute hand-in-hand with your fellow neighbor as the community closes the gap between health and hunger.

RELOCATION GUIDE

CRISP: Drive through the countryside and discover old Victorian farmhouses situated beneath the tall oak trees in the town of Crisp. This small community is located in the southern part of Edgecombe County and was named for Crisp Creek. Crisp is home to Eagles Baptist Church. Organized in 1891, it was the second Missionary Baptist Church in Edgecombe County and remains the largest church in Crisp today.

LAWRENCE: The community of Lawrence, known as "Killquick" in the early 1830s, changed its name several times before settling on Lawrence in 1901. Located near the Edgecombe-Halifax County line on Highway 97, the community includes Grace Episcopal Church. Founded in 1894 by S.S. Nash and members of Calvary Parish, the church is no longer active but is available for special occasions as the church's red doors welcome all.

LEGGETT: Legend tells us that Leggett, once known as Leggettville, is likely named after the Leggett family, as Civil War Sgt. Henry Leggett is buried in a small cemetery within this community. North Carolina's first highway commissioner, William Hart, established the William and Mary Hart Presbyterian Church. Leggett is home to North Edgecombe High School.

MACCLESFIELD: Like its neighboring town of Pinetops, Macclesfield is a product of the East Carolina Railway, which ran south from Tarboro. Henry C. Bridgers named the town after what he believed was the Bridgers' family ancestral home in England. Macclesfield Christian Church, established in 1905, is the town's oldest church and still maintains a congregation welcoming visitors each Sunday. On July 4th, Macclesfield plays host to residents and visitors for a festive Independence Day celebration with carnival rides, food, fellowship, and fireworks. For a relaxing round of golf or a swim in the pool, take advantage of the amenities provided at the Maccrine Country Club.

RELOCATION GUIDE

OLD SPARTA: The birthplace of North Carolina Governor Elias Carr, his grand plantation home, "Bracebridge Hall" remains a few miles south of this small town dating back to the 1830s. Though it remains a private residence for Carr's ancestors, it can be beautifully viewed from the highway. Known throughout history for its bustling river port, Old Sparta gains recognition for its country store and historic churches, Old Sparta Primitive Baptist (est. 1856) and Old Sparta Advent (1918). In 2007, low river levels exposed a pole vessel used on the Tar River before steam boats when Tarboro and Old Sparta were booming port towns. From the river banks and Old Sparta Bridge, catch a glimpse of this large wooden object that was built in the 1820s and is 80 feet long!

PINETOPS: Only being able to see the tops of the pine trees from the train windows is how this vibrant community received its name. Founded in 1901 and incorporated in 1903 as a rail station, Pinetops became the intersection of commerce as businesses would use the rail system to transfer goods. Centrally located between Greenville, Wilson, and Rocky Mount, Pinetops offers a quick commute to metropolitan cities, lively businesses, heart-warming churches, and friendly people. Be sure to drop by the Centennial House, a museum displaying historical information, relics, and photographs of the first 100 years of Pinetops.

PRINCEVILLE: The oldest town incorporated by African-Americans in the United States, Princeville was established by freed slaves after the Civil War in 1885. Originally known as Freedom Hill, its name was changed to Princeville in honor of Turner Prince, an African-American man who was responsible for building many of the homes in the community. Adjacent to the Tar River, the town has been flooded many times, most notably by Hurricane Floyd in 1999. Rains from the hurricane contributed to the rising of waters in some areas to more than 23 feet above sea level. Now, more than a decade after the flood, Princeville is restored and encourages visitors to tour the Princeville Welcome Center and Museum as well as the Mural at Heritage Park, where one unlocks the secrets of the past, present, and future of this growing town.

RELOCATION GUIDE

ROCKY MOUNT: With a population surpassing 55,000, the city of Rocky Mount is only partially located in Edgecombe County as railroad tracks divide the city between Nash and Edgecombe counties. Rocky Mount had its beginning in the early part of the 19th century and its name was derived from the rocky mound at the falls of the Tar River. This was also the site of Rocky Mount Mills, one of the first cotton mills in North Carolina, which was established in 1818. Though the mill closed its doors in 1996, Rocky Mount is bustling with many businesses, attractions, restaurants, and accommodations. Families will delight in trips to the Imperial Centre for Arts and Sciences, Children's Museum and Science Center, Cummins Planetarium, and the Rocky Mount Sports Complex. Edgecombe Community College's Rocky Mount Campus, Nash Community College and North Carolina Wesleyan College are all accredited academic institutions with programs tailored for every student.

SHARPSBURG: The town of Sharpsburg is located within the southwestern tip of Edgecombe County, North Carolina and was founded in 1844 by John J. Sharpe. Electric power came to Sharpsburg around 1923 or 1924. Until that point, records show that the town employed a lamp lighter. The town of Sharpsburg is located in three counties: Nash, Edgecombe, and Wilson.

SPEED: Named after the town doctor, Eugene Travis Speed, Sr. in 1901, this community boasts vast farmlands and fields. Once home to a lumber plant in the first quarter of the 20th century, this community now plays host to a post office, fire station, and St. Mary's Episcopal Mission Church.

ST. LEWIS: Surrounded by the serenity of the sunshine and farmlands, the St. Lewis community resides on the outskirts of Edgecombe County. Named for its first post master, James I. Lewis, in the late 1850s, it was once home to a casket factory and cotton buying station. St. Lewis is located just outside of Tarboro.

FUN FACT:

As a teenager, Ava Gardner was first runner up in a beauty pageant held at the Colonial Theatre on Main Street. No one knows what became of the winner.

RELOCATION GUIDE

TARBORO: A vibrant, picturesque town, Tarboro is the county seat in Edgecombe County, with a population of more than 11,000. Chartered in 1760, Tarboro served the area as an important Colonial river port and thriving trade center until the Civil War.

The center of Tarboro is the beautifully sculptured Town Common and Historic District. One of only two original town commons left in the United States, this 15-acre greenery is lined with tall oak trees and war memorials. The 45-block Historic District is a must for historic preservationists, history enthusiasts, and architectural designers. Created by the National Parks Service in 1977, the Historic District boasts more than 300 structures from residential dwellings to churches and cemeteries to original 19th century storefronts along Tarboro's Main Street. It's all within walking distance and perfect for an afternoon stroll through the streets. Tarboro blends its distinctive heritage with a modern lifestyle to create a captivating community that will keep you coming back again.

Adventure lovers will enjoy paddling the Tar River, biking the Historic Tarboro Trail, or cheering on sports teams at Indian Lake Sports Complex. Art aficionados will revel in the timeless art found at the Blount-Bridgers House, where renowned artist and native Hobson Pittman's paintings are exhibited. Theatre patrons can take in a show by local actors, the Tar River Players, or delight in guest performances from the New York Theatre Ballet and the North Carolin Symphony.

Tarboro's booming business industry is home to companies with global distribution, including Keihin Carolina System Technology, Hillshire Farms, Anderson-Talbert Peanut Company, World Cat, Moorecraft Reels, Triton International Woods, and Mayo knitting Mill.

Located in Tarboro with a satellite campus in Rocky Mount, Edgecombe Community College offers 170 credentials including degree programs and certificates meeting the needs of local manufacturers. Students are sure to find exactly what they are looking for in education at the national recognized college.

Visit Tarboro, the place where neighbors meet on the sidewalks, art and history merge, and front porches are for celebrating the place that continues to be one of the greatest towns of the South.

FUN FACT:

Tarboro is the home of Mike Caldwell, who won two games in the 1982 World Series while pitching for the Milwaukee Brewers against the St. Louis Cardinals.

WHITAKERS: Surrounded by uniqueness and diversity, homes with a circular roof framing line the streets of this rural town. Established in 1740 and named for Richard and Elizabeth Carey Whitakers, the town of Whitakers is situated on both sides of the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad and U.S. Highway 301. Whitakers is a short commute to Interstate 95 and the Rocky Mount-Wilson Airport. The town that once boasted three churches, a casket company, two cotton gins, and two saw mills in the early 1900s, is now home to Cummins Diesel, an engine manufacturing company. The town has many established historic landmarks including Whitakers Baptist Church, Bellamy's Mill, Fishing Creek, and Watson Seed Farms. Nestled in rural Whitakers is the Franklinton Center at Bricks, a former slave plantation that was transformed into one of the first accredited schools for African Americans in the South. Definitely a must see for those who embrace their rich heritage.

FUN FACT:

Tarboro is home to Kelvin Bryant, who was an All Conference running back at UNC before playing for the Washington Redskins Super Bowl XXII winning team!
