CHAPTER 9
PLANNING AND ZONING

Article I. Title, Purpose and Intent

9.005. Title

This Ordinance shall be known as the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Ashland, Missouri.

9.010. Purpose

This ordinance is adopted to promote and protect public health, safety, comfort, convenience, prosperity and general welfare. More specifically, it is intended to fix reasonable standards to which buildings and structures shall conform, to regulate and restrict lot coverage and population density, to conserve the value of land and buildings in all areas of the city, to guide the proper distribution and location of various land uses, to promote the safety and efficiency of the streets and roads, to provide for adequate light, air, sanitation and drainage, to conserve natural resources, to provide safety from fire and other hazards, to define the powers and duties of the administrative bodies provided hereinafter, and to prescribe penalties for violation of the provisions of this ordinance or any amendment hereto.

9.015. Intent

These regulations are based upon the Comprehensive Plan of the City of Ashland, as adopted by the Board of Aldermen and on amendments thereto. The Comprehensive Plan includes estimates of population growth, land use surveys, a land use plan, plans for major thoroughfares, community facilities, public services and utilities and other components.

The need for public services and facilities in both scale and location depends upon the character and intensity of land use. Regulation of the use of land is fundamental to coordinated, orderly growth and to the development of the city.

The Zoning District Map indicates existing or probable development and does not, in all cases, reflect a present use of land.

The Zoning Ordinance is not intended to assess, nor to influence the assessment of the value of properties.

9.020. Abrogation and greater restrictions

This ordinance is not intended to repeal, impair or abrogate private covenants, deed restrictions or easements, except that where this ordinance imposes greater restrictions, its provisions shall prevail.

The provisions of this ordinance shall be held to be minimum requirements, shall be construed in favor of the ordinance, and shall not be deemed a limitation or repeal of any other power.

All other regulations or parts of regulations of the city inconsistent with this ordinance, to the extent of the inconsistencies only, are hereby repealed.

Whenever any other statute, order, ordinance, or regulation imposes a superior mandate or higher standards than are required by these regulations, the provisions of such statute, order, ordinance or regulation shall prevail.

9.025. Severability

Should any section, clause, provision or portion of this ordinance be adjudged unconstitutional or invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction, the remainder of this ordinance shall not be invalidated thereby. Similarly, should any portion of the Zoning District Map be held invalid, the remainder of said map shall not be invalidated thereby.

9.030. Jurisdiction

These regulations apply to all lands within the City of Ashland, Missouri.

9.035. Authority

These regulations are adopted pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 89 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1986, and all amendments thereto.

9.040. Force and Effect

Following passage by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Ashland, Missouri, this ordinance shall be in full force and effect upon adoption, or at such other time as the Board shall direct.

All buildings and uses subject to these provisions are also subject to all regulations pertaining to sanitary sewerage, water supply, drainage and storm water management, erosion and sediment controls, access, land subdivision or other public utility, services and land development regulations separately enacted by the Board of Aldermen, or by other competent authority having jurisdiction.

Major repair is defined as the replacement of 60% or more of an existing fence's value, as measured over the entirety of the existing fence length. Permit applicants are responsible for any required permit fees which have been established by the City.
- C. Commercial or industrial fences and walls. Fences or walls may be erected in any commercial or industrial district to provide screening and/or buffering. Barbed wire and similar materials may be used on such fencing so long as it is not immediately adjacent to a public right-of-way. Walls associated with agricultural uses are not exempt from the requirements of this section and must receive permit approval from the City. However, if the owner fails to remove the fencing or if an emergency situation arises the City will remove the fencing and charge the property owner for the expenses. At no time will the City be required to compensate the owner for the cost of repair, replacement, or removal of fences within water, sanitary sewer, or storm water easements.

9.375. Planned Residential Development, Special Provisions

9.375.1 Purpose. Planned Residential Development (PRD) is a conditional use permitting procedure established to provide for innovative and beneficial residential development in selected settings, with these objectives:

1. flexibility in the design and location of structures;
2. efficient and economical use of land, especially on sites with topographic, drainage or other limitations which render conventional residential development especially difficult, or extreme in its physical impact on existing natural features;
3. preservation of natural features or useable common spaces and facilities in greater measure than would be probable with conventional development;
4. resultant quality of residential development at least commensurate with that, which would result on the same site without use of the PRD procedure.

9.375.2 Approval Not Mandatory. A Planned Residential Development may be approved by the Board of Aldermen on a finding that the general and special purposes of this ordinance are well served by such action, but approval is not mandatory, and PRD is not a use of right.

9.375.3 Uses Permitted. Permitted uses in an PRD are the same as those established for the district in which it is located; simultaneous consideration may also be given for any of the conditional uses established for the same district, and these may be incorporated into the development plan.

9.375.4 Uses. If a PRD or Conditional Use permit is requested or granted, the developer must abide by the regulations set forth by the Planning and Zoning ordinances pertaining to the way that the property will be used, not as it is currently zoned. (i.e: If single family dwellings are to be built in a commercially zoned district, the development will abide by the regulations pertaining to R-1 zoning.

9.375.5 Variations and Limitations.

9.375.5.1 Residential unit types may be varied, with single or multiple dwellings clustered or mixed within the development, except that within the R-1 residential district, no single structure may include more than four (4) dwelling units.

The design may provide for modification of normal yard, setback, height and other requirements of these regulations, consistent with the objectives of the PRD procedure, except that a minimum building setback of twenty-five (25) feet shall be maintained around the perimeter of the PRD.

Residential density limitations are as provided in section 9.375.55.

9.375.52 Unified development is a major objective, and the site shall be under unified control at the time of application and under centralized project management throughout the development process.

There is no minimum or maximum project site size requirement.

9.375.53 Access shall be provided to each dwelling unit by a public right of way, or by a private vehicular or pedestrian way owned by a dwelling unit owner in fee or held in common by the residents or owners of the PRD.

9.375.54 Common access, parking, recreation facilities, services or other commonly-held component parts of the PRD shall be operated and maintained by a permanent homeowners association of all owners, or similar entity. The association shall be empowered to levy dues and assessments for these purposes, in the nature of an enforceable lien against individually owned units, in order to assure continuing responsibility for common holdings.

9.375.55 The maximum development density is a PRD in established by dividing net development area by the minimum lot area required per family in the district or districts in which the PRD is located, after deduction from gross site area for perimeter street right of way requirements, and after deduction of all areas set aside for churches, schools and other or similar nonresidential uses.

The area of all land set aside for common open space, access, parking and recreational use, however, may be included in determining maximum development density. Areas in each residential district shall be computed separately, and then aggregated for total unit potentials.

9.375.56 Actual approved dwelling unit yield in a PRD may be restricted by the Board of Aldermen to less than maximum potential yield, and shall be governed by specific site conditions such as topography, character of surrounding development, traffic capacities and adequacy of public utilities and services.

9.380. Procedure; The procedure for approval of a Planned Residential Development, involves two steps, and Administrative Review Plan and Detailed Development Plan.

9.380.1 The submission of the Administrative Review Plan to the Administrative Officer is to enable said officer, together with other city officers and representatives of affected agencies or utilities, to work out with the applicant or his representatives a proper plan for the area involved, considering onsite and offsite conditions, services and characteristics.

This initial review is conceptual. It is intended to determine project compatibility with surrounding areas with the Ashland Comprehensive Plan, and to indicate appropriate conditions and expectations to be met by the development project.

The Administrative Officer's review is advisory, and is not binding on the Planning and Zoning Commission or Board of Aldermen.

9.380.2 The submission of a Detailed Development Plan for the PRD follows the procedure for a conditional use permit, and in accord with the time intervals, notifications and public review sequence established therein.

The required content of an application for approval of a Detailed Development Plan are as shown in Section 9.385. below. The plan shall be submitted at least thirty (30) calendar days prior to the meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission. (amended Council Bill No. 2006-059, 1-02-2007) (amended Council Bill No. 2008-010, 2-19-2008)

The requisite findings, and the bases for any imposed conditions of approval are the same as for the other conditional use permit, as provided in Section 9.360.2 of these regulations. Conditions may include, but are not limited to uses and use separation, layout, buffer landscaping, circulation, parking or utilities, as appropriate to the setting.

It is also the express intent of these regulations that all applicable procedures governing the subdivision of land be coordinated with review and hearing of the Detailed Development Plan, including any requisite certifications by engineers, surveyors, or other parties established therein for purposes of preliminary subdivision plat review.

9.380.2 After approval of the Board of Aldermen, the Administrative Office may issue permits enabling the Detailed Development Plan to be carried out, in accord with the conditions and terms of said approval. The PRD shall be noted on the zoning district map.

9.380.3 Action of the Board of Aldermen shall run with the land, and the execution of the Detailed Development Plan shall not be modified as to use of the land, change in dwelling unit yield or other substantive features, except under the procedures established herein for original approval.

Minor, non-substantive changes may be authorized by the Administrative Officer, in carrying out the Detailed Plan. In case of uncertainty, the responsibility for determination of minor versus substantive change shall rest with the Planning and Zoning Commission.

9.385. Detailed Development Plan, Scope and Content.

9.385.1 The Detailed Development Plan shall include the entire tract of assembly of land held in single ownership or under control of a single development entity, at the time of applications.

9.385.2 The Detailed Development Plan shall be rendered at a scale smaller than one inch to one hundred feet and shall show:

- (a) name of development, north point, scale, existing zoning, acreage and boundaries of the property to be developed;
- (b) adjacent tracts, with owner's last names or similar identifier, and adjacent zoning;
- (c) one hundred (100) year flood plain within and adjoining the development tract;
- (d) existing streets, alleys, buildings, utilities, topography vegetative cover and significant natural features within and adjoining the tract;
- (e) proposed streets and connections or extensions, buildings, parking, common features, utilities and utility extensions, approximate grades, drainage accommodation, generalized landscaping, entrance identification or other signing and necessary easements;

- (f) sufficient detail and dimensions to show true relationship of structures, streets and drives, parking, common elements, setbacks and adjoining uses;
- (g) signature blocks for approval and date, by Planning and Zoning Commission and Board of Aldermen, attested as customary.

9.385.3 The Detailed Development Plan shall be accompanied by supplemental information, to include:

- (a) a valid legal description of the development tract, with aggregate acreage to the nearest one-tenth acres.
- (b) the name of the owner or owners of the property and their consent to the development proposal.
- (c) A brief statement of the project objectives, target market, natural area preservation or common area features, and the reasons for choosing the PRD instead of conventional development procedures.

9.390. Conveyancing. No conveyancing of dwellings or land with a Planned Residential Development shall be permitted until applicable final platting requirements for the subdivision of land have been accomplished.
