Chelsea Police Department 2013 Annual Report

Photo: Renovated in 2000 as a Full Service Police Headquarters

History The Chelsea Police Department remains one of the oldest police departments in the United States. In 1834, the position of Constable was established in the Town of Chelsea and given statewide powers when serving warrants in both civil and criminal cases. There was no regular salary attached to this office but if called upon to “keep peace at assemblies”, the constable was paid a fee of one dollar for each activation. John Low and Benjamin Shurtleff were both elected the first Constables for Chelsea.

In 1847, a Night Watch was instituted by the town fathers at a cost of forty dollars for the year. As a result, the Town authorized the Selectman to employ a Night Watch whenever “they deemed it necessary.” A Police Court was subsequently established in 1855 and was located at 220 Broadway with Hamlet Bates serving as the First Justice of the Court.

In 1857 the first Chelsea “City” form of government passed a city ordinance establishing a Police Department comprised of a City Marshal and six assistants. Erastus Rugg was appointed the first Marshall at a salary of $800 a year with a total operating budget of $4,450.

The first entry in the Chelsea Police Journal, made on July 13, 1857, read “Write anything you think will be interesting to the Police Department each day with your name.-E. Rugg.”

On July 7, 1871, the first death of a police officer, killed in the line of duty, was recorded in the police journal which read: “For no explainable reason a man approached David Weber, on duty at the time, and shot him in the region of the heart from which he died.”

In 1881 the title of City Marshal was changed to Chief of Police, with two deputies and fifteen patrolmen. As the population of the city continued to grow through the years of the late 1800s to the early part of the 20th century and to the recent waves of newcomer immigrants to the City of Chelsea so too did the size of Police Department. Today the Police Department is considered a “Massachusetts Major City Police Department” and is comprised of 96 Permanent Police Officers with Brian A. Kyes serving as the department’s 20th permanent Police Chief.

To Our Stakeholders,

On behalf of the fine, hardworking men and women of the Chelsea Police Department (CPD) I am extremely enthusiastic once again as I begin my seventh year as the City's Police Chief to present the 2013 CPD Annual Report. I am extremely proud of CPD and the excellent service which it provides to those who live, work, and travel in Chelsea. It is and has been my philosophy that we must strive to serve the community in the most efficient manner possible. During my tenure as Police Chief, I have continually sought new avenues to improve our effectiveness and increase the Department's efficiency. Given the current fiscal climate, these efforts are now more important than ever.

In the pages that follow you will see that CPD continues to lead the way through current adversity and continuing challenges that confront us from across the state and nation by maximizing our available resources, finding innovative and creative ways to support our mission, and providing for the safety and security of all the members of our community. Our sworn officers and civilian support staff continue to be completely committed and dedicated to our respective areas of responsibility and to the community that we so faithfully serve.

CPD has undergone some significant organizational changes over what has been a much improved year. We reduced overall crime by over 24%, and violent crime is also down by an astounding 33%. We continue our quest towards becoming the best full service community policing organizational structure; in providing the optimum level of service and protection to the community in the entire state and beyond.

This past year the CPD became one of only 37 police departments out of 370 agencies statewide, including 10 major College and University Police Agencies, and only one of nine of the 35 Major City Police Departments in the Commonwealth to achieve the prestigious and professional status of excellence in law enforcement by receiving its second subsequent three-year award of Statewide Accreditation. Although participation in this State Accreditation process is strictly voluntary, the successful attainment of the status by the CPD ensures and ultimately reinforces that the delivery of all police services in the City of Chelsea are at the highest level of professionalism and integrity possible. The CPD received its first Accreditation Award in 2010.

As we move into 2014 we continue to look at new initiatives and projects stemming from feedback received during the evaluation and assessment of our policing tactics, strategies, policies and programs revealed during the accreditation process over the past several years. We pledge to further incorporate technology, accountability and ingenuity in combating crime and addressing those quality of life issues that lead to further crime. We will continue to work under a community policing model utilizing the concept of "smart policing" and community engagement working as efficient and effective as possible despite any ongoing fiscal pressures that may exist relating to the State's economy resulting in some difficult legislative choices.

In closing, you have our unyielding commitment to continue our tireless efforts to ensure that the City of Chelsea remains one of the most vibrant up and coming working cities in the Commonwealth. With your ongoing support, collaboration, and assistance I am extremely confident and exceptionally optimistic that we will be successful despite any pressures and challenges that we may face.

Sincerely,

Dear Reader:

Much of the substantial success the City continues to enjoy is as a result of the outstanding work of our public safety forces, including within our police department. The efforts of our gallant men and women in blue continue to impress and advance the reputation of one of the most responsive and responsible law enforcement departments in the country.

The officers of the Chelsea Police Department are crime fighters; there is no mistaking that. From beat patrols to major crime investigations, CPD operations are professional and successful. Reviewing the performance of CPD solely from this perspective, however, does not allow for a full accounting of CPD's thorough impact on the quality of life local residents enjoy.

CPD is a proactive force that understands the value of prevention in today's law enforcement environment. Therefore, the direct and personal involvement of a great police chief, Chief Brian Kyes, and the accomplished troops under his charge in a wide range of community activities further solidifies CPD's role as a positive change agent within the city and, may I add, in neighboring jurisdictions as well.

I am so proud of the work our officers do in the area of law enforcement, but I am equally as proud to see the impact CPD has in other areas of our community, like public health, community development and education. To accomplish its now varied missions, CPD has struck numerous local partnerships, the most in-depth of which is with Roca, a community based organization whose mission it is to address the needs of a proven risk population. CPD and Roca have developed a strong partnership, perhaps one of the strongest police/CBO partnerships in the nation, and the results have been spectacular. Through that partnership and numerous others, CPD has distinguished itself for its willingness to collaborate with any and all to improve the safety, as well as the health and welfare, of all those who live, work or visit our community.

The law enforcement profession is so much more difficult than it once was, and yet CPD continues to stand tall in the face of many challenges. While already accomplished, CPD has challenged itself to do even more. By adopting new models of prevention and intervention and by implementing new methods of both engaging the public and fighting crime, CPD is breaking new ground, and our entire community and those observing our actions are truly the beneficiaries.

I am in awe of the dedication of our officers and so truly appreciative of their individual and combined efforts. As the following pages reflect and their daily actions reinforce, through the heroic service of our Chelsea Police Department, none of us could be in better hands. Lucky are we to be so well served!

Respectfully submitted by,

Our Values

"We, the members of the Chelsea Police Department, are dedicated police professionals committed to the community we serve, sensitive to the needs and wants of our citizens, holding ourselves accountable to the highest standards of excellence and integrity and treating all citizens that we encounter with respect and dignity."

Office Of The Chief

The executive head of the Department is Chief Brian Kyes. Chief Kyes oversees all the organizational components and functions through his command staff. Chief Kyes was appointed under the provisions of Massachusetts General Law Chapter 41 Section 97A and Article 1 section 7-5 of the Chelsea City Ordinance. The responsibilities of the Police Chief includes; oversight of the daily operations of the Department, preparation of Department budget and submission to city officials, responsible for all Departmental expenditures, disbursements and collected funds in accordance with federal, state and local laws.

In 2013, The Chief of Police was responsible for ninety-six (96) sworn police officers, ten (10) Civilian employees and a budget of $9,036,206. Chief Kyes is a Connected COPS Awards Finalist for 2013 Top Cop Award.

Re-Accreditation: On September 12th, 2013 the Chelsea Police Department received a State Accreditation Award from the Massachusetts Police Accreditation Commission at a ceremony held at the Andover Country Club. The standards for the Massachusetts Police Accreditation Program are based upon national standards established by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. (CALEA). The selected standards impact officer and public safety, addressing high liability risk management issues, while promoting operational efficiency. The standards reflect the best professional practices in each area of police management, administration, operations and support services. "Going through the process initially requires intense and ongoing self-scrutiny, and ultimately provides a comprehensive top-down quality assurance review of the entire agency," stated Chief Kyes.

Lieutenant Ed Conley

Internal Affairs

The Internal Affairs Office reports directly to the Chief of Police. Historically, police departments have been an instrument to maintain law and order. To be fully effective, the police need to have and maintain public trust and confidence and have their cooperation. Trust and confidence can exist only if; the public recognizes that their police department uses its enforcement procedures with integrity and according to law. Employees of the Chelsea Police Department are held to the highest standards of professional conduct. Employees who do not adhere to the standards of conduct, either through deliberate action or negligence are subject to disciplinary action such as corrective training, counseling, or punitive action that shall be applied in a prompt and specific manner.

As the Department's Internal Affairs Investigator, Lt. Ed Conley is responsible for recording, registering and supervising the investigation of complaints against all employees. This investigator ensures that the integrity of the Department is maintained by conducting intensive and impartial investigations and reviews in an objective, fair and judicious manner.

The objectives of the internal affairs investigation are: protection of the public, protection of the employee, correction of procedural problems and the removal of unfit personnel. In 2013, thirty-five (35) investigations were conducted by both Lt. Ed Conley and Lt. Ed Noseworthy.

Lt. Conley was instrumental in the start up of the Chelsea Safe and Successful Youth Initiative Program and the Violence Intervention Team. This was a joint effort with Molly Baldwin and Dana Betts from Roca.

"The relationship the Chelsea Police Department has created through this program is incalculable."

"As police officers, too often we find ourselves enforcing and punishing, instead of teaching and reforming"

Captain Thomas Dunn

Professional Standards and Administration Division

Captain Thomas Dunn is the Division Commander of the Professional Standards and the Administrative Division. The division is comprised of the following; Safe and Successful Youth Initiative, Violence Intervention Team, PACT, Crime Analysis and Reporting Unit, Information Technology, Training, Recruitment, and Background Investigations and all civilian support Personnel. This includes future needs of the Department services, staffing, facilities, equipment and technology.

The Unit is responsible for issuing new and revised Department policies, directives and procedures ensuring that they are compliant with the Massachusetts Police Accreditation Program. It is also responsible for maintaining the building and all of its working parts.

The goal of the Unit is to establish an environment effective in management, teamwork, empowerment, communication and professional development. The Department is committed to providing resources for long-range planning for future needs of the Department – services, staffing, facilities, equipment and technology.

Safe and Successful Youth Initiative

Lt. Martin Conley is the coordinator of the Safe and Successful Youth Initiative and the Violence Intervention Team. Through a collaborative effort with Roca and North Suffolk Mental Health, CPD is applying a nontraditional policing approach. Focusing on cognitive behavioral change and facilitating mental health services, CPD aims to drastically reduce violence and increase social responsibility among that high risk population.

Violence Intervention Team

CPD is committed to aggressive investigations and arrests, however, those efforts are being augmented by CPD's Violence Intervention Team (VIT). VIT makes arrest, performs FIO's and is a presence in high crime areas. The difference with VIT is that it communicates with Roca's youth workers to identify (PRM) proven risk males (17-24) who have been considered "Impact Player's" by the department. Youth workers then engage these PRM's on the street, applying relentless outreach until they are successful in getting them into Roca's program. Since its inception, over 150 PRM's have been engaged in the program.

Lieutenant Martin Conley

Sergeant. David Flibotte

Recruitment and Background Investigations

The Recruitment and Training Director is responsible for background investigations. As Training Director, Sgt. Flibotte coordinates training for all police personnel; recruits, civilian's, as well as sworn officials. He is the Department's Criminal Justice Information Systems (CJIS) representative which links the Department to Federal, State and other agencies and includes monitoring terminal use, enforcing system discipline and ensuring operational procedures are followed. He is the National Incident Based Reporting System (NIBRS) representative, coordinating with the Massachusetts State Police Fusion Center reporting accurate statistical information to the Massachusetts State Police Crime Reporting Unit and FBI, for all criminal activity in the City of Chelsea.

Training

The Chelsea Police Department conducts yearly in service training for all sworn members of the Department. The training includes a review of new laws and court decisions that effect how an officer performs his/her job; First Aid and CPR, use of less lethal weapons refresher such as the Electronic Control Device (Taser) and the bean bag shot gun, as well as the Department's policies that govern their use; Defensive tactics, which include armed/unarmed techniques used to make a lawful arrest.

Firearms Training conducts two firearms classes per year, providing each officer with individual training. The Department contracts a specially designed firearms range to be brought to Chelsea. Each officer works one on one with the Firearms Instructor, Sergeant Michael Nee during the training.

The Officers must be qualified on the Massachusetts Police Training Committee standardized training. Additionally, Chelsea Police Officer's are placed in scenario judgment training, where they are tested on regarding use of their firearm.

Sgt. David Flibotte hosts a recruit information center at the 30th Annual National Night Out and Community Resources Division Lieutenant Tyre speaks to members of the community.

Data Quality

One of the most significant organizational changes to occur was the increased focus on the department's Crime Analysis Unit. Recognizing the importance of quality data in decision making, the department combined the NIBRS/UCR crime statistics reporting function with the established Crime Analysis Unit. This combination created the new Crime Reporting and Analysis Unit (CRAU) which worked in conjunction with the Massachusetts Crime Reporting Unit. Crime Reporting and Analysis Unit also worked cooperatively in conjunction with the many units within the Chelsea Police Department, local Police Departments and the Boston Regional Intelligence Center (BRIC) through information sharing and the transformation of data for local crime patterns, and trends.

Information Technology

The City of Chelsea manages the computer systems within the police department. As an IT professional with the City of Chelsea, Alan Jussif works in conjunction with the department personnel by providing a high level of technological support which includes the guidance of the appropriate applications, an efficient infrastructure to enable the department to deliver a high level of service to the community. With a renewed focused in architecture , and system compliance, under the direction of Ramon Garcia—IT Director for the City of Chelsea, significant accomplishments included the completion of the mobile computer systems and MS SharePoint Server upgrade.

Environmental Crime Prevention Initiative

The Department of Public Works completed a major conversion of approximately 1622 LED energy-efficient street lights in the city of Chelsea. The city's annual energy consumption for street lights will reduce by 54%, and the estimated annual savings in dollars is $75,000 combined with an annual maintenance savings of $40,000. Joe Foti, City Yard Manager who led the conversion said the LED's are a white light, brighter on the eye, and come with a 10 year warranty.

Police Action Council Team

A team of licensed MGH clinicians, Georgia Green, Beth Muccini and Bonnie Fishman continued work in collaboration with Police Department. For more than fifteen (15) years the Police Action Counseling Team (PACT) has been providing crisis intervention to children who witness or have been victims of violence, in order to reduce trauma and to ultimately interrupt the cycle of family violence. The goals of PACT a partnership between MGH Chelsea and the Chelsea Police Department, are to facilitate the healing process and to strengthen the resiliency of children.

The new Officers were assigned to (3) months with a certified Field Training Officer. Officer David Delaney, Officer Scott Sardo, and Officer John Ridge were officially appointed as Patrolmen.

State-of-the-Art Wellness Center Opened

The Chelsea Police Department has a new wellness center full with state-of-the-art fitness equipment. The Command Staff has long been a proponent of the wellness program. In fact, Captain David Bachelor initiated the inception of the Wellness Program several years ago and became a driving force in 2012 for a renovation of the aging facility.

As the plans of the new Wellness Center took its shape, Captain Thomas Dunn acting in capacity as the Commander of the Professional Standards Division took on a significant role in the renovation this year. Captain Dunn acknowledged a few factors played a role to get the fitness center renovation completed but pointed out that the purchasing of the new equipment became a reality largely due to the generosity of Chief Kyes after he laid down his own money for the equipment.

Captain William Dana

Patrol Division

The Patrol Division is the largest division in the Department. It operates year-round, seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day. The function of the Patrol Division is to provide uniformed patrol coverage to all areas of the City. Officers conduct patrols on foot, bicycle and in motor vehicles. They respond to emergencies such as crimes in progress, motor vehicle accidents, injuries illness and fires. They routinely investigate citizen complaints, arrest offenders, appear in court, provide traffic control and enforcement, and attend community based meetings.

The primary goal of the Patrol Division is the prevention of crime and disorder by adhering to the Community Policing Philosophy; as adopted by the Department over fifteen years ago. Under this philosophy, officers are assigned to designated areas of the City, called Sectors. Each officer has the responsibility of addressing concerns in their area.

The Patrol Division also provides service by responding to emergency 911 calls on a daily basis. Annually the Chelsea Police Department has approximately 35,000 calls related to police services. Of the 35,000 calls received, approximately 5,500 are documented as incidents requiring reports. The Patrol Division investigate approximately 700 motor vehicle accidents per year and arrest approximately 2,000 individuals annually.

The Patrol Division is committed to continuing its philosophy of IMPACT Policing (“Improved Methods of Patrolling Area Crime Trends”) in redeploying its resources as the need requires to target certain areas, crime trends and specific offenders including implementing certain strategies and tactics such as dedicated temporary units, foot patrol, bikes, cruisers, motorcycles, anti-crime units, surveillance, cameras, gang officers and narcotics detectives to increase its efficiency and effectiveness.

Patrol Division Officers made more than (4000)
IMPACT Patrols In 2013.

Improved Methods of

K-9 Unit

The K-9 Unit has successfully integrated its field activities with the regular Patrol Division force by substantially reducing the danger inherent to Patrol Officers in the performance of their official duties. The proceeds necessary to fund this important program were received primarily from a Metro Homeland Security Grant. In addition to a dual purpose Patrol Utility/ Narcotics Detection Dog, the Chelsea Police Department has two Explosive Ordnance Detection (EOD) Dogs which assisted in the aftermath of the Boston Marathon Bombings in April of 2013.

Chelsea PD K-9 Alex conducts demo for community event.

Street Robbery Task Force

In 2011 the City of Chelsea experienced a total of 229 Robberies. In 2012 that number increased by 25 and rose 11% for a total of 254 Robberies. In 2013, Chief Kyes deployed a Street Robbery Task Force comprised of (1) Sergeant and (4) Patrol Officers. On February 1st Sgt. Brian Dunn, Officer Paul McCarthy, Officer Richard Laft, Officer Carlos Vega, and Officer Robert Hammond began this temporary assignment. The strategy applied involved a combination of surveillance, a focused effort towards known violent offenders, utilization of technology, and the service of warrant arrests. The deployment involved a comprehensive review of crime data, mapping, patterns, strategic, and tactical analysis. The Task Force worked closely with the District Attorney's Office to oversee all robbery cases asking for high bail, dangerousness hearings, probation surrenders, strict sentencing guidelines. Due to its productivity over the course of the year the assignment was extended through the year and the results yielded the arrest of 390 individuals, seizure of 106 illegal weapons (including several firearms), 26 street robberies cleared by arrests, numerous lengthy investigations, and over 1500 street contact interviews (FIOs). At the end of year statistics revealed 174 robberies, significant reduction in property loss, and violence to victims.

Residential Parking Program

As a result of a comprehensive study which revealed as many as 20% motor vehicles parked overnight were from out of town, Chelsea Police, Parking Enforcement and City Officials began the Resident Parking Program for compliance with restricted parking. Vehicles parked in the city streets overnight now require a resident sticker or visitor placard. The program is staffed by Chelsea Police Officers as well as parking department officials.

A Child is Missing (ACIM)

The Chelsea Police Department partnered with a non-profit organization committed to helping law enforcement agencies locate missing persons. The department has adopted ACIM's A Child Is Missing Alert Program which uses technology to assist in the early location and recovery of missing children, missing elderly (often with Alzheimer's) and missing persons with disabilities.

Anti-Theft Devices for Vehicles

The Department expanded its outreach on a program organized by the late Officer John Gravallese of Patrol Division in efforts to extend outreach to the community to safeguard their vehicles. Throughout the year owners of operable older model vehicles were offered free anti-theft locking devices.

Community Action

Officers continued to hold dozens of Community Action Meetings in 2013. The Community Action Teams were established for the purpose of formulating the priorities for the Chelsea Police Department. They meet on a monthly basis at various predetermined locations throughout the city. All meetings are posted on the police website and in many other locations.

Community Police Officer Sammy Mojica

Drug Awareness, Prevention, and Education

CPD participated in National Drug Facts Week which is a health observance week to help teens shatter the myths about drugs and drug abuse and to get factual answers through community-based events and activities. The Drug Enforcement Agency is one of the federal partners supporting this effort led by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA).

CPD participated in (2) National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day's led by the DEA. United States Drug Enforcement Administration's (DEA's) announced that the Sixth National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day held on April 27, 2013, 742,497 pounds (371 tons) of prescription medications were collected from members of the public at more than 5,829 locations manned by 4,312 state, local, and tribal law enforcement agencies that partnered with DEA on the event.

The Chelsea Police Department has participated in all (7) seven take-back events, since the DEA started the national campaign in 2010. The public about the potential for abuse of such medications.

Unused or expired medication can be disposed of at newly-installed kiosks in our police station lobby, 19 Park St Chelsea, Mass. The MedReturn Drug Collection kiosks are free, safe, confidential and available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. No questions will be asked of people who utilize the kiosks. The kiosk was installed after the Chelsea Police Department recognized the need for the safe disposal of unwanted or expired medications, which often are improperly disposed into city sewerage systems thus contaminating our precious eco-system.

Chelsea Police Narcotics/Vice Unit attended a community discussion about drug abuse. The event was organized by a community substance abuse coalition led by City Manager Jay Ash. Participants heard first hand about how substance abuse affects the community.

CPD participated in the expansion of crisis intervention services through partnership with the Boston Emergency Services Team (BEST). BEST enables the police department to link services such as inpatient psychiatric hospitalizations, outpatient programs, substance abuse services, and assistance with family stabilization.

During a time following a 10 % rise in the 4-Year graduation rate within a 2-year time period, and the reduction of violent crime in 2013, we are eager to continue to collaborate and work together with our stakeholders to build upon the success in support of our mission to provide a safe and secure community.
