

If this is marked with a blue pencil it shows that your subscription is due (or will be at the end of this month) and must be paid at once or your Avalanche will be stopped.

Crawford

Avalanche

JUSTICE AND RIGHT

VOLUME XLIV

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN, OCTOBER 26, 1922

OSCAR P. SCHUMANN, Editor and Proprietor

NUMBER 44

SUPERVISORS CLOSE SESSION WED.

The regular annual meeting of the board of supervisors was finished Wednesday of this week. All members were present and much work accomplished. Following compose the present board: M. A. Bates, chairman; Grayling; Charles Craven, Frederic; J. E. Kellogg, Lovell; Jos. Royce, South Branch; Hans Christenson, Beaver Creek and Jas. Knibbs, Maple Forest.

Together with the regular routine of auditing bills, making appropriations, checking up on the several officials and departments, a new member was appointed on the Board of Road Commissioners. Several applications for the position were on file, including one from Supervisor Knibbs of Maple Forest township. His appointment was confirmed but before doing so it was necessary for him to resign as supervisor, which he did. Mr. Knibbs succeeds John A. Holliday, whose term expired in January.

Another specially interesting fact is the receipt of $11,000 from the Michigan Central Railroad company as a fee for the filing of a trust mortgage in this county. This money the supervisors have placed in the highway fund for use in building the proposed "east and west" trunk line highway, running from Traverse City in the west to Harrisville in the east, connecting the county seat cities of Kalkaska, Grayling and Mio. This highway is not yet designated but efforts are being made to have the State Highway department do so.

Many miles of trunk line highways have been built in Crawford County; 71-2 per cent of the cost being paid by the tax payers of this county, but is brot out that our tax payers have not paid a single cent toward this cost. Contracts taken by the County Road Commissioners have enabled this municipality to make profits which have been sufficient to pay our county's share in the construction.

This should sound good to the ears of property owners. Many miles of gravel trunk line highway, and M18 nearly completed from the north to the south end of the county and have not cost our tax payers one cent. This is a fact and if there are any "doubting Thomases" all they need to do to be convinced is to go to the records at the Court house and find out.

For a Better Town

Conducted by Grayling Board of Trade.

MEET WITH THE BOARD OF TRADE MONDAY, OCT. 30th, 8 P. M.

The business men of Grayling are invited to attend a regular meeting of the Board of Trade, Monday, October 30th. This meeting it also open to all men who have the good of their community at heart.

At recent meetings the business men have not been very well represented. There is no reason for their staying away. They above all others should get out and enter the discussions and boost for the best interests of our community. This next meeting is just as important as any other and we will expect to see a large crowd. Next week's notes will contain the names of those present, or absent as the case may be. Will you be there? Or will you stay away?

Have you voluntarily joined the Board of Trade? The committee will call on you if you have not already become a member. You will be urged to join. In fact you may be pulled right in with the best bunch of live guys in town.

Let's see you out at the meeting Monday, October 30th.

Holger F. Peterson, president.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

P.O.P.

BOTTLE OF FRESH NOOSE

(Notes of the Grayling schools.)

The Senior class will present the first number of the Lyceum Course November the second in the High School Auditorium. Webster Davis will lecture on "The Square Deal."

The following students have enrolled in Miss Gniech's Synchronizers. Vernon Klingensmith—Banjo. James Richardson—Saxophone. Edward Gierke—French horn.

The French pupils are to correspond with students in France. They expect to be receiving some interesting letters soon.

Miss Gideon's Modern History class will have a debate next Friday, the question being: Resolved, Any woman who fails to vote in 1923 should be punished by a fine or lose her vote in 1924.

The U. S. History classes are studying and reporting from loose leaf Current Events Notebooks.

Coach Brown's Rainbows will enter training for the '23 basket ball season. We call them Rainbows on account of their faded suits.

Class Stones.

Freshmen..... Soap Stone
Sophomore..... Dieman
Junior..... Grindstone
Seniors..... Tomb Stone

How To Succeed.

"Push" said the button.
"Take Pains" said the window.
"Be Straight" said the ruler.
"Stick to things" said the maulage.
"Be up to date" said the calendar.
"Never miss a second" said the clock.
"Be sharp" said the knife.

John Phelps:—Let's speak to those girls on the corner.
Lipman:—S'no use they are telephone girls.

John:—What of it?
Lipman:—They won't answer.

He Emersonized his morning thru.
He Poed his midday lunch.
He Kiplinged thru his beans and bread.
And Holmesed at every munch.

He Hawthorned on his way to class.
At dinner time the blighter.
Will Shakespeare o'er his scalloped steak.

He dreamed he was a writ:
He Huskined thru his twilight time.
He Homered up to bed.
But now—Alas he's raising sheep.
At twenty bucks a head.

Marion—Edgar, you're wheezing dreadfully. Is it asthma?
Edgar—No, I'm all out of breath and am trying to catch up in my sleep.

The senior class will canvass the town with season tickets for the Lyceum Course, Monday and Tuesday. Adults $1.50; Children $1 season ticket.

The members of all high school classes are enrolled in the Junior Red Cross.

George Granger went to the Gaylord Fair. It was always George's ambition to have his fortune told, and here an opportunity presented itself. George entered the booth of Madame De Palma. She took his hand and told him that he would be a famous man if he lived long enough. George asked her what he would be noted for and she replied "Your old age."

Have your seats reserved at Lewis Drug Store for the Lyceum course.

Don't let the H. S. Football team dim your efforts. Take Miss Gniech's Synchronizers for example and succeed in life.

We took the following names and derived something queer about each character:
Lipman Landsberg—Lovable Lad.
Edgar McPhoe—Entirely Magnificent.

Carl Hanson—Cattle Hand.
Finley Klingensmith—Funny Kid.
Clarence Ingalls—Clever ink thrower.

Agnes Hansen—Almighty hand-some.
Irving Kendrick—Intensely kiddish.
Francella Corwin—Famously cute.

Iva Frohn—Important pebble.
Myrtle Winslow—Mysterious wind-storm.
Herman Hansen—Henpecked husband.

A powder puff club has been organized. No fees are necessary but you must be armed with a puff, mirror, etc.
President—Kristine Salling.
Vice Pres—Marion Reynolds.
Charter members—Lillian Ziebell,

FARM BUREAU NOTES

R. D. BAILEY
County Agricultural Agent

LIMESTONE LEGUMES LIVESTOCK

MEAN
PROFITS IN FARMING

Milk.

As winter draws near thoughtful people will look for a place to secure a liberal supply of milk for themselves and for their children.

People who skimp on milk are too often liberal in purchase of cigars and attendance at the movies.

The price of a good cigar will buy a quart of milk which is the amount a school child should have every day. Heien Wilcox has prepared the following list of good things to be said for milk:

1. Pellegria is caused by a diet deficient in certain elements. Milk added to such a diet cures this tropical disease.

2. Beri-beri is a disease of the nerves similar to pellegria. Milk cures it.

3. Inflammatory rheumatism has been cured by an entire milk diet. The milk washes away the poisons causing this ailment.

4. Milk cures sore eyes when same is caused by a deficient diet.

5. Milk adds actual inches to a man's stature. Japanese coolies were experimented upon and after being fed much milk, several inches were added to their height.

6. Milk plus fresh air and sunshine cures tuberculosis.

7. A milk diet exclusively will greatly reduce flesh.

8. A milk diet exclusively will add good solid flesh to a thin person.

9. Milk was one of the main foods upon which Jack Dempsey trained for his winning battle. It makes dependable brawn and muscle.

10. Milk is recognized as the greatest "protective food" known to man. The milk-eating man or woman has a resistance to disease not possessed by non-milk eaters.

11. The midshipmen at Annapolis are required to consume at least one quart of pure milk per day. No "sick days" are common here since milk has become the conditioner.

12. The Chinese, Japanese, and similar races who have never known the dairy cow are undersized and lack initiative and "pep." World leaders are invariably the milk-fed nations.

13. Miss Florence Busse of Iowa State College has divided milk into the following: For muscle, milk and cheese; for bones, milk, cottage cheese and cheese; for energy, butter and cream; for body regulator, butterfat; for growth, milk, butter.

14. Milk prevents scurvy or cures it.

15. School children who are regular milk users complete the grades two years ahead of non-milk users, according to an experiment on 55,000 children in Los Angeles.

16. In all athletic competitions milk drinkers invariably win over non-milk drinkers.

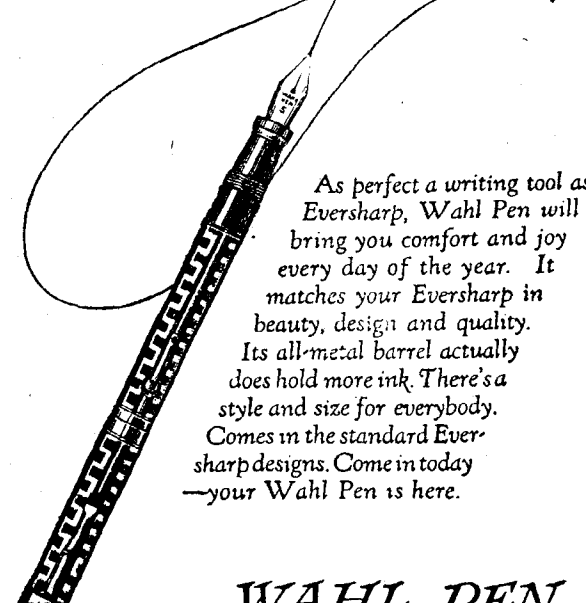

17. Milk makes well developed tissues, smooth hair, bright eyes, and healthy color.

18. The lime in milk builds strong bones.

19. The vitamins in milk insure normal growth.

20. Children who do without milk

It Matches Your Eversharp

As perfect a writing tool as Eversharp, Wahl Pen will bring you comfort and joy every day of the year. It matches your Eversharp in beauty, design and quality. Its all-metal barrel actually does hold more ink. There's a style and size for everybody. Comes in the standard Eversharp designs. Come in today—your Wahl Pen is here.

WAHL PEN
MATCHES
EVERSHARP

Carl W. Peterson, Jeweler.

GIFTS THAT LAST

TO THE VOTERS OF CRAWFORD COUNTY

WOMEN AS WELL AS MEN.

It is your duty to get out and vote for sheriff at the coming election, the first Tuesday in November.

We have reason to believe that you will give reasonable time and thought to making the best selection for the sheriff's office. In so doing you will weigh the candidate's character, his willingness to attend the duties of the office of sheriff. This is no lazy man's job if those duties are to be properly administered. It takes a man with ability to stop violators of the law, whose nerve is of the quality that makes a good officer. We have reason to believe, regardless of party politics, that

PETER F. JORGENSEN

IS the only feasible candidate for the office of sheriff and should be elected on Nov. 7th. Every voter should make it their business to cast a vote for PETER F. JORGENSEN.

Mr. Jorgenson has been a resident of Crawford county 36 years, and has been a tax payer for thirty-two years. He has served as highway commissioner for seven terms, under seven different boards and each have had the highest praise for his work. Mr. Jorgenson is honorable and efficient in the performance of his duties as an officer, always looking to the interest of his COUNTY, in a just and upright manner. His work will stand the test of honor. Mr. Peter F. Jorgenson has not made any state nents which he does not intend to fulfill. He is of that sturdy type which will cause violators of the law to have a great deal of respect for him as sheriff. We know that Mr. Jorgenson will clean up the violations and maintain a greater respect for the law than there has been in the past few years. We do not believe that any opponent of Mr. Jorgenson has those sturdy qualities of character and ability to perform the duties of sheriff.

CAST YOUR VOTE FOR PETER F. JORGENSEN, FOR SHERIFF.

(X) PETER F. JORGENSEN.

GEO. BURKE DOING BIG BUSINESS IN DELCOS.

Geo Burke reports that he is receiving a big demand for Delco lighting systems. The last one to be delivered is for the Johannesburg Manufacturing Co., to be used in their lumber camps. This was shipped Tuesday.

Others who have purchased plants lately are J. W. Burke, hotel, Frederic; the Charles Thomas hotel at Houghton Lake; A. J. Price and Chas. Silsby, Roscommon. Edgar A. Murray is also equipping his beautiful log cabin on the AuSable with Delco lights. Mr. Burke says that the prices have taken a big drop.

NOTICE—NO HUNTING.

Notice is hereby given that hunting or trespassing is not allowed on my premises, opposite the County Infirmary. Violators will be prosecuted according to law.

10-19-22. Chris King.

Victrolas and Victor Records

We can get any Victor record you like.

Come in and hear the late numbers.

Central Drug Store.

C. W. OLSON, Prop'r.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

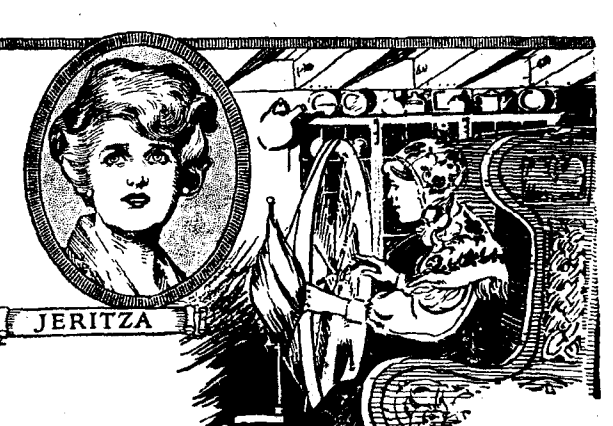

NEW PRICES

F. O. B. DETROIT

Chassis	$235
Runabout	$269
Touring Car	$298
Truck Chassis	$380
Coupe	$530
Sedan	$595

These are the lowest prices of Ford cars in the history of the Ford Motor Company. Orders are coming in fast, no place yours promptly to insure early delivery.

BURKE'S GARAGE, Grayling

Romantic Ballad by

Jeritza

The howl of the gale runs through this haunting melody, "A Ship the Restless Ocean Sweeps," the song of Senta from Wagner's sea legend, "The Flying Dutchman." Jeritza brings to it that splendid dramatic sense which alone can make a record thrilling as this
Victor Red Seal Record 74776

McCormack

at his best

This famous aria from Handel's secular oratorio "Semele" might have been "just made" for McCormack. The first phrase is a long trill while later comes a prolonged sinuous voice passage. "Oh, Sleep! Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" reveals in full the powers of this great artist.
Victor Red Seal Record 66096

Braslau

makes a cheerful record

"Somebody Loves Me" is the kind of song they use to lighten up a long program. As Braslau sings it it will brighten many a dull moment.
Victor Red Seal Record 66084

Flonzaley Quartet

plays a tripping number

The Finale to Mozart's Quartet in G Major, a swift, emphatic composition, truly joyous in its essence.
Victor Red Seal Record 74693

JUST IN—THE NEW NOVEMBER RECORDS

Central Drug Store

Chris W. Olsen, Proprietor.

SPECIAL

Oct. 15 to Oct. 28, (inclusive)

Dr. West's
Regular 50c Tooth Brush
for 35c

Just another one of the many bargains you find at our store.

LOCAL NEWS

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1922.

Prescriptions carefully compounded.
Central Drug Store.

Miss Augusta Kraus is driving a new Buick Six touring car.

Mrs. Henry Bauman left Friday to spend a few days in Detroit.

E. W. Behlke of Bay City was in Grayling on business Thursday.

Ladies wool and silk hose. The reliable "Even Knit" at Cooley and Redson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Marius Hanson entertained a few ladies at dinner Saturday evening.

24 1/2 pound sack bread flour, sold Saturday at Salling Hanson Co. Store 19 cents per sack.

Mrs. Oscar Hanson and daughters and Mrs. Ella Smith left Friday for a week's visit in Detroit.

Gerald Brown, physical director of the local schools spent Sunday with his parents at Plainwell.

Entirely different. Our new line of imported Decker edge stationery.

Howard Smith left Sunday night for Flint where he will be employed.

Charles Fehr installed a Delco lighting system for a party in Elkhought Lake the latter part of the week.

Miss Dora Morency has resigned her position as clerk in the Nick Schlotz store on account of poor health.

Mrs. A. E. Mason was hostess to a few ladies at Bridge Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Robert Reagan held the highest score.

Alfred P. Hughes was in Bay City last week Wednesday to attend the wedding of his sister Miss Margaret Hughes to Mr. John Mallon.

Buy your potatoes at Salling Hanson Co. store Saturday only 50c per bushel.

LADIES WANTING A

WRIST WATCH

REMEMBER THE GIFT SHOP
AMERICAN MADE, FROM

$18.50 to $100

GET YOUR

Eversharp Pencil

AT THE GIFT SHOP, PRICE
FROM

50c to $6.00 Each

RED, BLUE OR BLACK.

B. A. COOLEY

Jeweler

Specials for Saturday.

WOODLAND NUT-OLEO.

25c per lb.

STRICTLY FRESH EGGS, 40c.
BULK SAUERKRAUT, 5c per
lb. It is fine.

Arnold S. Burrows
Market—Phone 2

Get denatured alcohol for your radiator.
Central Drug Store.

Mrs. B. A. Cooley was in Bay City on business Monday.

You can get well thru Chiropractic adjustments.

Buy your potatoes at Salling Hanson Co. store Saturday only 50c per bushel.

Herbert Smith, of Northville, Mich., was a guest of Miss Ida Granger over Sunday.

Columbia records for November, now on sale at Olaf Sorenson & Sons, Music Dept.

Mrs. John Leonard is enjoying a visit from her son Ira, who now resides in Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hanson have returned from an extended visit in Detroit with relatives.

Big hit "Don't Bring Me Posies" on Columbia records, now on sale at Olaf Sorenson & Sons, Music Dept.

Clark's orchestra will play for a Halloween dancing party at Roscommon on Tuesday evening, Oct. 31.

The du Pont plant and some of the local mills are closed down on account of lack of cars to make shipment in.

For your Halloween party, see our complete line of invitations, place cards, tally cards, favors and decorations. Also card prizes.

Carl W. Peterson, Jeweler.

Alfred Hermann left for Detroit, Monday night, his father Adolph Hermann who is a patient at Harper hospital having taken a change for the worse.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes and the former's son Howard who has been making his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dowker for the past few years, left by auto for Decatur, Ill., Saturday morning to reside.

Word was received Wednesday morning that Christian Hendrickson of Grand Rapids, Mich., died October 21st. His body will be brought to Grayling for burial Thursday. Services will be held from the Danish church. The Hendrickson family formerly resided in Grayling.

Mrs. Charles Lee passed away at her home on Ogemaw street, early Tuesday morning after a several weeks illness. The deceased was 54 years old. The family have only resided in Grayling for a short time. The funeral was held this morning, Rev. W. L. Jones of the Michelson Memorial church conducting same.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shore and little daughter motored to Bay City last Friday.

Mr. Lewis spending a short time in Saginaw returning home Monday.

Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. E. W. Behlke whom she is visiting expect to spend some time together in Grand Rapids and Detroit before the former returns home.

Mrs. Edith Lewis, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Thelma Moore and three small children, arrived the latter part of the week from Morenci, Mich., the Moore family coming here to reside at the J. L. Baer home for the winter. The husband of Mrs. Moore was killed by lightning several weeks ago, while doing his evening chores on their farm.

Otto Hendrickson, wife and 3 children left Saturday for New York, from where they sailed Tuesday for Finland. Mrs. Hendrickson has not been in very good health for some time and felt going back to her home for a time would improve her health.

Mr. Hendrickson says he hopes to return again to Grayling. He is the brother of A. E. Hendrickson of this city.

Mrs. Dennis Johnson was made happy Tuesday afternoon by a visit from the Bluebird girls of the Michelson Memorial church and their teacher, Mrs. James Wingard. There were six teen girls and each one brought an article of groceries or a jar of choice fruit for Mrs. Johnson. A pot luck supper was served and the class as well as Mrs. Johnson greatly enjoyed the affair.

24 1/2 pound sack bread flour, sold Saturday at Salling Hanson Co. Store 19 cents per sack.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter McNeven and children motored to Petoskey and Harbor Springs Sunday to visit relatives of Mrs. McNeven. Mrs. McNeven's brother Mr. Baker met a terrible death in Milwaukee last week Tuesday when he was struck by a train in the Milwaukee railroad yards and instantly killed. Mr. Baker was claim agent for the C. M. & St. P. R. Co., in Milwaukee, and was on duty when he was taken by death.

The trial of Gordon Davidson, charged by his wife with non-support was held before Justice Emil Kraus Monday. Homer L. Fitch represented the people and Attorney Counins of Bay City represented Mr. Davidson. The latter was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs, and in default of payment be imprisoned in the county jail 30 days. The case has been appealed to the circuit court and will probably be heard in the January term.

Mrs. Celia Granger was hostess to a few ladies Thursday afternoon of last week in honor of her guest, Mrs. A. Lang of New Orleans, Louisiana. Visiting was enjoyed and Mrs. Granger served a most delicious lunch. Mrs. Lang, who was an old neighbor and friend of the Granger family when they resided in New Orleans, has been spending the past couple of months here as a guest in the Granger home. The party was a farewell for Mrs. Lang, she taking her departure for her home Monday.

Herman Wendt and his estimable family, who have resided on a farm in Saginaw for the past four years, and have operated a farm to be proud of during that time have sold out to Albert Hoffman, and moved to Detroit, where they formerly resided.

Mrs. Wendt is a landscape gardener, and for thirty was employed in beautifying Belle Isle, and goes back to Detroit to resume this work at the Island. The Wendt farm is one of the best in the county, and Mr. Wendt and son Richard tilled the soil to make it so.

Buy one of those famous Dr. West's tooth brushes from A. M. Lewis. He sells them for two weeks only at 35 cents, regular price 50 cents.

Semper Viva, or the Rose of Jericho.
Central Drug Store.

Harry Reynolds left Tuesday night for Flint to visit friends.

You can get well thru Chiropractic adjustments.

There will be a regular meeting of the Rebekah lodge Monday night, Oct. 30.

Buy your potatoes at Salling Hanson Co. store Saturday only 50c per bushel.

Ed. McCray of Caro was a guest at the E. G. Clark home a few days last week.

Annual Red Cross roll call—from Armistice Day, Nov. 11, to Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 30th.

Come in and hear the new Columbia records for November at Olaf Sorenson & Sons, Music Dept.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ziebell and daughter Miss Helen enjoyed a 200 mile motor trip Sunday visiting at Oscoda and Ausable.

Clare Cameron of Sigma spent Sunday visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Cameron and family. He was accompanied to his school by James Reynolds.

Mrs. Cornelia Day of West Branch inspected the Marvin Relief Corps Friday afternoon. Several were present. After inspection a lovely lunch was served in the dining room.

Glen Arnold of Ypsilanti was in the city over Sunday visiting friends. Mr. Arnold comes to Grayling each summer with the Michigan National Guard, holding a commission of major of the signal corps.

The State District Teachers association will meet next Monday. This county is in District No. 2, and the meeting will be held in Saginaw. Most of our county teachers are intending to attend.

Word has been received of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McArthur at Pontiac on Oct. 22. The mother was formerly Miss Marion Schreck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schreck of this city.

L. B. Merrill will hold an auction sale at his farm, known as Pine Hurst Farm, 3-4 of a mile north of the Love School house in Beaver Creek township next Tuesday, Oct. 31. Read his advertisement on another page of this issue.

Leon LaMotte arrived Saturday to accompany his wife and children to Detroit. Mrs. LaMotte has been spending several weeks visiting at the home of the former's parents owing to her ill health. The family returned to Detroit Saturday night.

F. M. Weber, manager of the Gaylord Herald and Times, has purchased the Montmorency County Herald, published at Atlanta. Mr. W. J. McQueen who has published the paper for the past two years, suspended publication, temporarily owing to being in poor health and unable to secure competent help.

Members of Board of Trade: The social committee cordially invites yourself and lady to be present Saturday night, Oct. 28, and enjoy a radio concert. A special program of dance music will be played by one of Minnesota's famous bands at Minneapolis and all radio receiving stations are invited to "listen in." Come and you are also privileged to invite a couple if you so desire.

Judge Smith halted circuit court long enough Wednesday afternoon of the week of October 25th to try the trial of J. B. Wilcox for violation of the liquor law, to sentence John Marlett, supervisor of Otsego Lake township to 5 days in the county jail, or until further order of the court, for talking aloud during the court proceedings. Marlett was discharged at the end of the session.

Eugene Potter, a former well known old resident passed away at Milford, Mich., on October 19 and the remains were brought to Grayling, and funeral services held at the Michelson Memorial church Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. L. Jones preached an impressive sermon, and interment was in Elmwood cemetery. Mr. Potter for many years operated a farm down near Horigan's hill.

Mrs. Walter Nadeau was hostess to the Nore Such "500" club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Benton Jorgenson held the highest score and Mrs. T. Klingensmith received the consolation prize. Mrs. Ambrose McClain, Mrs. Holger Hanson and Mrs. Louis Kessler were guests of the club, the latter winning the guest prize. Last week the club had an enjoyable pot luck supper at the home of Mrs. Klingensmith.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scott enjoyed the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary Friday evening October 20, at their home in South Branch township. Mr. and Mrs. Scott, the latter who was formerly Miss Elizabeth Foor, were united in marriage October 20, 1872 at Rigat township, Lunawee county, Mich. They took up their residence in South Branch township of this county in 1878 and one year later took up a homestead in the same township, at which place they have since resided. Those present at the function were Oliver B. Scott and family, Henry Scott and family, Alvin Scott and wife, Charles Scott, Vernon M. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Atwood of Afton, Mich.

The injunction cases of the St. Helen Shooting Club vs. Louis G. Paine, Harold Paine, Joe Ferguson, William Gage and Simeon Poole, residents of St. Helen were disposed of at the regular session of Circuit court held in Roscommon last week, and a judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiff whereby permanent injunctions were made against the defendants prohibiting them from hunting on Lake St. Helen. Several years ago the St. Helen Shooting Club leased all the ground around the lake for the purpose of using it as a duck hunting ground for its members, and as wild rice grew in the marshes there it became a natural feeding ground for ducks. Residents in and about St. Helen and also West Branch sportsmen believed that the club had no legal right to prevent others than members to hunt on the lake and the five above residents continued to hunt there until the club had an injunction served on them by the court. Attorney Hiram R. Smith of Roscommon represented the plaintiff and Attorney Harry Harris of West Branch represented the defendants. This case which has been pending for some time has been watched with much interest in this section.

THIS STORE IS PREPARED

as never before to supply your needs for Cold Weather.

Quality merchandise, lowest prices and splendid assortments are here.

Ladies' and Misses' Coats.
Sweaters, Knit Goods.
Flannel Gowns.
Gloves and Mitts.
Outing Flannels.
Shoes and Oxfords.
Middies.
Yarns.
Underwear.

Blankets and Comforters.
Men's Suits and Overcoats.
Boys' Suits.
Mackinaws and Sheepskins.
Men's Caps.
Underwear for Men and Boys.
Flannel Shirts.
Every style of Rubber for all the family.

A new line of Ladies' and Misses' Silk Dresses just received—splendid styles at $16.50 to $20.

Grayling Mercantile Co.
THE QUALITY STORE

You can get well thru Chiropractic adjustments.

Fresh eggs Saturday at Salling Hanson Co. Store only 45c per dozen.

Frank Bennett was in Detroit on business a few days last week.

Fred Welsh is putting a new addition to his home on Michigan avenue.

Hear "Coal Black Nanny" at Olaf Sorenson & Sons, Music Dept.

Nothing nicer than a box of our imported stationery for gift or prizes.

Carl W. Peterson, Jeweler.

A fine new line of wool tricotine and poret twill dresses just received at Cooley and Redson's.

Mrs. Charles Craven returned home to Frederic Wednesday after a couple of weeks spent in Flint, Bay City and other places.

Mrs. John Mathiesen returned the latter part of last week from an extended visit with relatives in Lansing and Fowlerville.

Dr. C. A. Canfield and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Joseph and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Larson and family at Johannesburg.

It is reported that an epidemic of diphtheria has broken out in Roscommon, and the town is under quarantine. The Roscommon Herald-News in its last issue tells of seven children of one family being all ill with the disease, two seriously. The schools there were closed Thursday morning in an effort to avoid an outbreak of the disease. It is reported that 61 persons came down with the disease Saturday and Sunday.

24 1/2 pound sack bread flour, sold Saturday at Salling Hanson Co. Store 19 cents per sack.

A fine line of Christmas greeting cards at the AVALANCHE office. Now is the right time to place your orders and thus be sure of getting what you prefer, and on time.

Men
Wanted

DuPONT CO.
Grayling, Mich.

LUDEN'S
MENTHOL COUGH DROPS
for nose and throat
Give Quick Relief

Subscribe for the AVALANCHE.

AVALANCHE BIG SUBSCRIPTION OFFER

You Get ALL FOUR of These
MAGAZINES AND OUR NEWSPAPER
For One Year Each FOR $2.55 Order Now

THIS EXCEPTIONAL OFFER IS GOOD FOR A SHORT TIME ONLY
Subscriptions may be new or renewal. All renewal subscriptions will be extended for one year from present date of expiration.

OUR BULLETIN OF WEEKLY BARGAINS

"A Penny saved is a penny earned"—Franklin.

QUALITY FIRST AND THE LOWEST PRICE CONSISTENT WITH GOOD QUALITY IS A RULE WITH US.

Clothes Hampers, maple splint, narrow brads, colored center, hinged cover 1.22

Fly Swatters, "The King", 12 mesh, black wire with 3 wire selvages on each side, leatherette bound across the end. 9c

Mirrors 1 inch frames in the following finishes: white enamel, golden oak and mahogany, glass 6x8, only 23c

Boys Wagons at bargain prices, large stock of many sizes and kinds; all steel wagons, coaster wagons with spoke wheels and coaster wagons with disc wheels. Either rubber or steel tires. Now is the time to buy—all steel wagon, size of body 11x22 in. 1.48
Coaster wagons with rubber tired disc wheel as low as $5.28.

Vacuum Cleaner The Premier sweeper has a cool running motor of simple strong design. This sweeper has a brush which revolves independently of the motor, it loosens all the ravelling lint and bits of litter held by the nap of the rug, all the dirt is collected in the dust bag. You will like the lightness and handiness of the Premier, guaranteed to do satisfactory work. 35.00

Matting Boxes, covered with plain Japanese matting; extra fine. The construction of these utility boxes is the very best made of basswood lumber which is light in weight, strong, does not warp and makes the inside look clean, white and attractive. Hinges are screwed on, the dust proof lids are new and a valuable feature, 18x30 top. Also large stock of other sizes. 6.48

These prices stand good until our next bulletin is issued next week.
SORENSEN BROTHERS
The Home Of Dependable Furniture.

THE CROSS-CUT

By Courtney Ryley Cooper

Copyright by Little, Brown & Co.

"$200,000!"

SYNOPSIS—At Thornton Fairchild's death his son Robert learns there has been a dark period in his father's life which for almost thirty years has caused him suffering. The secret is hinted at in a document left by the father, Fairchild, which also informs Robert he is now owner of a mining claim in Colorado, and advising him to see Henry Beamish, a lawyer, immediately. Robert's claim, a silver mine, is at Ohadi, thirty-eight miles from Denver. He also warns him against a certain man, "Squint" Rodaine, his father's enemy. On the road to Ohadi from Denver Fairchild assists a girl, apparently in a frenzy of haste, to change a tire on her auto. When she has left, the sheriff and a posse appear, in pursuit of a bandit. Fairchild bewildered, mistakes them as to the direction of the girl had taken. At Ohadi Fairchild is warmly greeted by "Mother" Howard, boarding-house keeper, for his father's sake. From Mother Howard, Fairchild learns something of the mystery connected with the disappearance of "Squint" Rodaine, his father's co-conspirator. He meets the girl he had assisted, who denies her identity. She is Anita Richmond, Judge Richmond's daughter. Visiting his claim, Fairchild is shadowed by a man he recognizes from descriptions as "Squint" Rodaine. Back in Ohadi, his father's old friend, Harry Elton, a Cornishman, summoned from England by Beamish to help Fairchild, finds him with joy. The pair ride the mine road and have not sufficient funds to take it. He pumped dry. Later in the day "Squint" Rodaine announces that he has been shot. Fairchild, who is the favorite, the entire population turns out to clear the road. When the car is practically done, Harry appears, apparently surprised at the turn of events. It had been a shrewd trick on his part to get the mine pumped out without cost to himself or Fairchild, and the men take it as a good joke. Fairchild learns that Judge Richmond is dying, and that he and Anita are in the power of the Rodaines. They begin, as partners, to work the mine. In their hearts both fear Larson, who was killed by Thornton Fairchild, and his wife buried in a cave-in which destroyed the mine. At the "Old Times Ball" Fairchild dances with Anita, to the discomfiture of Maurice Rodaine, son of "Squint." Fairchild is surprised at Anita's apparent indifference. Fairchild picks up the claim as bond and secures Harry's release from jail. They are offered $50,000 for the claim, by an unknown party, but agree to disregard it. Hearing the mine, they come to where they fear to find Larson's remains. A skeleton in a miner's costume, which Harry identifies as Larson, is there, and there seems little doubt that Thornton Fairchild was a murderer. Fairchild informs the sheriff of the discovery of the skeleton. At the inquest "Crazy Laura," castoff wife of "Squint" Rodaine, and an acknowledged imbecile, is damaging testimony against Thornton Fairchild. The jury returns a verdict that Larson came to his death at Thornton Fairchild's hands. Anita's engagement to Maurice Rodaine is announced. Fairchild is summoned to Denver to receive "important information" about his mine.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued.

"I was hoping that I had more than that."

"Ah, perhaps so. But I speak only from what I know. There is one person who is very anxious about your welfare."

"So?"

"Well, isn't there?"

Fairchild squared away from the table.

"Mr. Barnham," came coldly; the inherent distrust for the greasy, uninviting individual having served to the surface. "You wired me that you had some very important news for me. Now that I have taken up in drawing from me any information that I happen to possess about myself, plainly and frankly, I don't like it, and I don't like you—and unless you can produce a great deal more than you have already, I'll have to chalk up the expense to a piece of bad judgment and go on about my business."

He started to rise, and Barnham scrambled to his feet.

"Please don't," he begged, thrusting forth a fat hand, "please, please don't. This is a very important matter. One—one has to be careful in going about a thing as important as this. The person is in a very peculiar position."

"But I'm tired of the way you beat around the bush. As I told you before, I don't like it—and I'm just about at the point where I don't care what information you have!"

"But just be patient a moment—I'm coming to it. Suppose—" then he cupped his hands and stared hard at the ceiling. "Suppose that I told you that there was some one who was willing to see you through any of your troubles, who had arranged everything for you, and all you had to do would be to say the word to find yourself in the midst of comfort and riches?"

Fairchild blinked in surprise at this and sank back into his chair. Finally he laughed uneasily and puffed again on the dubious cigar.

"I'd say," came finally, "that there isn't any such animal."

"But there is. She has—" Then he stopped, as though to cover the slip. Fairchild leaned forward.

"She?"

Mr. Barnham gave the appearance of a very flustered man.

"My tongue got away from me; I shouldn't have said it. I really shouldn't have said it. If she ever finds it out, it will mean trouble for me. But truly," and he beamed, "you are such a tough customer to deal with and so suspicious—no offense meant, of course—that I really was forced to it. I—feel sure she will forgive me."

"Whom do you mean by 'she'?"

Mr. Barnham smiled in a knowing manner.

"You and I both know," came his cryptic answer. "She is your one great, good friend. She thinks a great deal of you, and you have done several things to cause that admiration. Now, Mr. Fairchild, coming to the point, suppose she should point a way out of your troubles? In the first place, you and your partner are in very great difficulties."

"Are we?" Fairchild said it sarcastically.

"Indeed you are, and there is no need of attempting to conceal the fact. Your friend, whose name must remain a secret, does not love you—don't ever think that—but—"

Then he hesitated as though to watch the effect on Fairchild's face. There was none. Robert had masked it. In time the words went on: "But she does think enough of you to want to make you happy. She has recently done a thing which gives her a great deal of power in one direction. In another, she has connections who possess vast money powers and who are looking for an opening here in the West. Now—" he made a church steeple out of his fingers and leaned back in his chair, staring vacuously at the ceiling, "if you will say the word and do a thing which will relieve her of a great deal of embarrassment, I am sure that she can so arrange things that life will be very easy for you henceforth."

"I'm becoming interested."

"In the first place, she is engaged to be married to a very fine young man. You, of course, may say differently, and I do not know—I am only taking her word for it. But—if I understand it, your presence in Ohadi has caused a few discrepancies between them and—well, you know how willful and headstrong girls will be. I believe she has committed a few—er—indiscretions with you."

"That's a lie," Fairchild's temper got away from him and his fist banged on the table. "That's a lie and you know it!"

"Fardon me—er—pardon me! I made use of a word that can have many meanings, and I am sure that in using it, I didn't place the same construction that you did in hearing it. But let that pass. I apologize. What I should have said was that, if you will pardon me, she used you, as young women will do, as a foil against her fiance in a time of petty quarreling between them. Is that plainer?"

It was too plain to Fairchild. It hurt. But he nodded his head and the other man went on.

"Now the thing has progressed to a place where you may be well—what one might call the thorn in the side of their happiness. You are the 'other man,' as it were, to cause quarrels and that sort of thing. And she feels that she has not done rightly by you, and, through her friendship and a desire to see peace all around, be lieves she can arrange matters to suit all concerned. To be plain and blunt, Mr. Fairchild, you are not in an enviable position. I said that I had information for you, and I'm going to give it. You are trying to work a mine. That demands capital. You haven't got it and there is no way for you to procure it. Your partner now is accused of four crimes and will go to trial on them in the fall. It is almost certain that he will be convicted on at least one of the charges. That would mean that the deeds to the mine must remain in jurisdiction of the court in lieu of a cash bond while the case goes to the Supreme court. Otherwise, you must yield over your partner to go to jail. In either event, the result would not be satisfactory. For yourself, I dare say that a person whose father is supposed to have committed a murder—not that I say he did it, understand—hardly could establish sufficient standing to borrow the money to proceed on an undertaking which requires capital. Therefore, I should advise that you were in somewhat of a predicament. Now—" a long wait and then, "please, take this as only coming from a spokesman. My client is in a position to use her good offices to change the viewpoint of the man who is the chief witness against your partner. She also is in a position to use those same good offices in another direction, so that there might never be a grand jury investigation of the finding of a certain body or skeleton, or something of the kind, in your mine—which, if you will remember, brought about a very disagreeable situation. And through her very good connections in another way, she is able to relieve you of all your financial embarrassment and procure for you from a certain Eastern syndicate, the members of which I am not at liberty to name, an offer of $200,000 for your mine. All that is necessary for you to do is to say the word."

Fairchild leaned forward.

"And of course," he said caustically, "the name of this mysterious feminine friend must be a secret?"

"Certainly. No mention of this transaction must be made to her directly, or indirectly. Those are my specific instructions."

"Do you want my answer now?"

"At any time when you have given the matter sufficient thought."

"That's been accomplished already. And there's no need of waiting. I want to thank you exceedingly for your offer, and to tell you—that you can go straight to hell!"

And without looking back to see the result of his ultimatum, Fairchild rose, strode to the door, unlocked it, and stamped down the hall. He had taken snap judgment, but in his heart, he felt that he was right. What was more, he was as sure as he was sure of life itself that Anita Richmond had not arranged the interview and did not even know of it. One streak of lightning had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

But the question was past answering now. Fairchild had made his decision, and he had told the lawyer where to go. But one thing was certain: the Blue Poppy mine was worth money. Once before an offer had come, and now that he thought of it, Fairchild felt almost certain that it had been from the same source. That was for fifty thousand dollars. Why should the value have now jumped to four times its original figures? It was more than the adventurer could encompass; he sought to dismiss it all, went to a picture show, then trudged back to his hotel and to sleep.

The next day found him still striving to put the problem away from him as he went about the various errands outlined by Harry. A day after that, then the puffing, snorting, narrow-gauged train took him again through Clear Creek canon and back to Ohadi. The station was strangely deserted.

Only the bawling bus man for the hotel, the station agent wrestling with a trunk or two—was all. Fairchild looked about him in surprise, then approached the agent.

"What's happened?"

"A lot. From what I hear it's a strike that's going to put Ohadi on the map again."

"Who made it?"

"Don't know. Some fellow came running down here an hour or so ago and said there'd been a tremendous strike made on the hill, and everybody beat it up there."

Fairchild went on, to turn into a deserted street—a street where the doors of the stores had been left open and the owners gone. Everywhere it was the same; it was as if Ohadi suddenly had been struck by some catastrophe which had wiped out the whole population. Only now and then a human being appeared, a few persons left behind at the banks, but that was about all. Then from far away, up the street leading from Kentucky gulch, came the sound of cheering and shouting. Soon a crowd appeared, led by gesticulating, vociferous men, who veered suddenly into the Ohadi bank at the corner, leaving the multitude without for a moment, only to return, their hands full of gold certificates, which they stuck into their hats, punched through their pockets, allowing them to hang half out, and even jammed down the collars of their rough shirts, making outstanding decorations of currency about their necks. On they came, closer—closer, and then Fairchild, grinning his teeth. There were four of them leading the parade, displaying the wealth that stood for the bonanza of the silver strike they had just made, four men whose names were gall and wormwood to Robert Fairchild.

Blindeye Bozeman and Taylor Bill were two of them. The others were Squint and Maurice Rodaine! One word from him to his father could change the story of Crazy Laura and make it, on the second telling, only the maddening tale of an insane, herb-gathering woman. Anita could have arranged it, and Anita might have arranged it. Yet, why should she have gone through this procedure to reach him? Why had she not gone to Farrell with the proposition—to a man whom she knew Fairchild trusted, instead of to a greedy, hand-rubbing slyster? And besides—

CATCHING COLD IS NOT AN ACCIDENT

The Penalty for Neglect of Health Rules

Take Father John's Medicine

When you catch cold you are inclined to think that it was accidental, that you sat in a draft or that you caught it from someone else. This is only half the truth. The real fact is that a cold is the penalty for neglect of the common rules of health. You have allowed yourself to become overtired, weakened and run down. You have allowed your power of resistance to be lowered. The cold germ which is always lurking nearby finds you an easy victim.

You can maintain your power of resistance to colds, coughs and similar trouble by taking Father John's medicine, which builds new strength and health. If you have already allowed yourself to take cold, begin treating it at once with Father John's medicine. It will not only drive off the cold but it will build up new strength with which to fight off future attacks.

Referred to the Anatomists. New York Church Bulletin—The Ladies Aid society has been the proverbial backbone of the church and as such is more and more coming to the front.—Boston Transcript.

SHE DYED A SWEATER, SKIRT AND CHILD'S COAT WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her worn, shabby dresses, skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything, even if she has never dyed before. Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is sure because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to spot, fade, streak or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.—Advertisement.

Always Hopeful. "I tell you there is no oil here." "Well, if we don't strike oil maybe we'll strike ore."

Grasp no more than thy hand will hold.

Paul S. Megrue.

Cincinnati, Ohio—"Some years ago I suffered from lowered vitality and liver trouble. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and now have excellent health. I can never forget what this valuable remedy has done for me and can recommend it for all rundown conditions caused from overwork or for sluggish liver."—Paul S. Megrue, 5501 Madison Road.

Health is your most valuable asset. Do not neglect it. Go at once to your neighborhood drug store and get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. or write for free medical advice.

Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Burning pain in the bladder, Sealing passages, Stone and gravel, positively relieved by Gino Pills. If sold by your druggist, send 50c. for full size box or $2.50 for 6 boxes, postage paid, Na-Dru Co., Inc., 88-88 Exchange St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Safe Remedy for granulated eye, itchy, pink eye, Avoid powerful dangerous drugs. MITCHELL EYE SALVE Sore Eyes

Comfort Baby's Skin With Cuticura Soap And Fragrant Talcum Soap 25c, Ointment 25 and 50c, Talcum 25c.

ASTHMA DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA REMEDY for the prompt relief of your cough and every form of asthma. Write for FREE SAMPLE. Merriam & Lyman Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

STYLE IN FUR GARMENTS; FANCY HAIR ORNAMENTS

FUR garments, and particularly fur coats, require much discrimination on the part of their makers, who must see to it that the design is in keeping with the character of the fur used. Fine furs mean pattern wraps—a certain restraint in design, real artistry in following the mandates of fashion, sumptuous garments that bespeak refinement. All these things must be kept in mind or the garment will fall short of perfect success and it is not dresses will be rich and sparkling, however simple. They begin with bandeaux that are merely wire wound with gold or silver tissue and ornamented with small metallic flowers or fruits at intervals, or adorned with little blue millinery flowers. Very narrow ribbons with metallic edges and metallic ribbons fashion some of the flowers and make pretty rosettes. The most popular of bandeaux or hairbands just now appear to be those easy to forgive failure when such means as fine furs are in the hands of designers.

Gracious and Luxuriant Coat of Persian Lamb.

In the gracious and luxurious coat pictured here there is nothing to criticize. It is made of Persian lamb, with marten collar and cuffs, and reveals original but conservative designing. Appropriating those features of the mode that distinguish it from coats of other seasons, it develops an uneven hem line, with points at the sides, and introduces a new diagonal front opening in which one side crosses over the other below the collar. The sleeves are regulation—large and flaring toward the wrists, finished with marten fur like the collar. Its lines are long and slender and its ample collar soft and unusually becoming. Baby carnel and broadtail are furs that are supple enough to lend themselves easily to nude of small velvet or metal leaves that call to mind the laurel wreath. Velvet leaves, in orchid, emerald, brown and yellow tones, have their edges outlined with gold or silver paint usually, and the favorites are rose foliage and little ivy leaves. Small heads of wheat, in the same coloring and metallized, are interspersed with the leaves, occasionally suggesting that they are for grained wearers. Emerald green or black velvet ribbon, twisted and finished with a small rosette, bow or ornament, looks particularly well in gray or white hair and brilliant ornaments of onyx and rhinestones are wonderfully well placed against such a charming background. The popular garland of leaves pictured employs blue and silver tissue pasted to a crinoline foundation for the leaves, and silver paint for the out-the making of modish wraps. These include bloused models and box coats, as well as capes. Among the last are cloth capes lined with fur, that seem even more luxuriously warm and cozy than fur coats lined with silk.

Head Dresses Are Rich and Sparkling.

Box coats of fur are very smart and usually they adopt the wide, straight, upstanding collar that looks as if it could fortify one against any degree of cold. Between voluminous fur collars and sheltering huts, the face is nearly covered with a barricade against wintry blasts, and eyes look contentedly out upon a snow-covered world.

Coats and wraps of fur-fabrics are not far behind those of natural furs in richness and warmth. In durability they have the advantage; nothing is more lasting. They are made on the same lines as wraps of natural fur and employ real furs for voluminous collars and cuffs.

Diadems, coronets, bandeaux and garlands made to encircle the heads of beauty are all in the running for the coming winter evening gaities—with bandeaux and garlands far in the lead.

It is a gold and silver season and it follows as the night the day that headline about their edges. The leaves are attached to a narrow ribbon and the ends of the garland are hooked or otherwise fastened together at the back.

Wired lace, spangled with pearls and rhinestones and joined to a jeweled band, furnish the most elaborate of headpieces for evening and the metallic cloths inspire many draped turbans which appear to be wound about the head. In addition to all these combs in many shapes and colors set with mock jewels will add to the sparkle and glitter of the dressy coiffure.

Spanking of coiffures, there is a whole new flock of them and they are greatly varied. In many of them the hair, in bands or strands, is wrapped about the head, in nearly all it is loosely waved. At least 50 per cent reveal a high hair dress with puffs and curls springing used, and there is also an interpretation of the "early venetian" style with hair parted in the middle and brought down over the ears.

Bead and Lace Garniture. Blouse trimmings are very interesting this season, being principally bead and lace. Motifs are embroidered in different colored beads and used on the body as well as the sleeves in some instances; in others the trimming is concentrated on the sleeves. Then there is wool lace which is very effective. Some use this for panels, while others use it as an embroidery, with the banding across the bottom, taking sections of it for trimming here and there on the body.

Millinery Colors. Brown and black are colors much in evidence in autumn millinery.

GRANDPA GRAY FOX

"It is too bad, but it cannot be helped," said Grandpa Gray Fox, and all the little foxes said:

"What is it that cannot be helped?" "We like to make our homes in the hollows of old trees, or we like to make them where there are ice caves and rocky dens.

"We do not care to burrow for a home as our cousins, the Red Fox family, do.

"It cannot be helped that we do this way, for it has been the way of gray foxes for years and years and years. 'It is too bad that this is our way and that we should care only for such homes because we can be captured more easily than our cousins.

"Our cousins burrow away and make their home where they can be safe and hidden, but we like homes all ready made for us.

"We're somewhat like people who care to live in furnished homes.

"Others like the kind where they fix it all up themselves.

"It is not that we do not care about our homes, and it is not that we do not care for home life.

"But we care for homes already made. They seem to appeal to us most, and we don't seem to be able to change our homes, as I've said.

"Of course our cousins are safer. But we will have to run the risks for the sake of doing our own way.

"And, after all, it is quite natural. Quite natural.

"It is true, too, that our fur is more popular than that of our cousins, the Red Fox family; but I will not talk about that."

And all the little foxes shivered and said:

"Please do not talk about that."

"Then, too," Grandpa Gray Fox continued, "we're not as shrewd and cunning as Mr. Red Fox and all of that family.

"We must admit that they are smarter than we are in knowing how to escape and in knowing how to fool those who're on the lookout for them.

"But we know how to climb trees. Ah, yes, we know that."

"It is something we love to do, too," said the little foxes.

"Good!" said Grandpa Gray Fox, "for from a tree you can often see away into the distance. At any rate you can see further than if you were down on the ground.

"In the Hollows."

"And up a tree you are safe if a dog is hunting you."

"But, best of all," said the little foxes, "it is such fun to climb trees."

"The Gray Foxes," Grandpa Gray Fox continued, "are good to their children, just as the members of the Red Fox family are good to their young."

"We would think it disgraceful not to be kind and good to the dear little foxes. Both the Daddy Gray Foxes and the Mother Gray Foxes are very devoted to their children.

"It is the same with the Daddy Red Foxes and the Mother Red Foxes, as I said, too.

"And we are all happy in our homes. The Mother and Daddy Red Foxes and the Mother and Daddy Gray Foxes are devoted to each other.

"Such happy fox mates as there are!"

"Grandma Gray Fox has been my devoted mate all my life. She is such a dear, dear Fox."

And Grandma Gray Fox smiled at Grandpa Gray Fox.

"You've talked to the little foxes quite awhile," said Grandma Gray Fox, "and I know that they've enjoyed it so much that they've doubtless worked up an excellent appetite. I've prepared a little banquet for them."

"Now, children," said Grandpa Gray Fox, "you see what a wonderful grandmother you have; so dear and kind and thoughtful of the little foxes."

And the little foxes grinned and began to frolic at the pleasant thought of the banquet.

Then Grandma Gray Fox brought forth a banquet of nuts and fruit and the foxes ate until they could eat no more, which was something they thoroughly enjoyed—as it is something so many enjoy, animals and other creatures!

No Dislike for Work.

First Little Boy—My papa says your papa hates work.

Second Little Boy—Oh, no, he doesn't. He likes work, but he hates to do it.

Too Realistic to Suit.

He—Had a realistic dream last night. I dreamt I proposed to you and you sent me to your father.

She—Yes, and what did papa say? He—That part is a bit hazy. All I know is I woke up and found myself on the floor.

Friend as Flora Viewed It. Laura—I'm engaged to a man only half my age.

Flora—And why not? He's certainly old enough to have married long ago.—London Tit-Bits.

Has Never Felt Better in All Her Life

Thousands of frail, nervous people and convalescents everywhere have testified to the remarkable power of Tanlac in bringing back their health, strength, and working efficiency. It seems to quickly invigorate the constitution and is a powerful foe of weakness. Mrs. Mary Choklat, 1415 N. Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif., says:

"Before I took Tanlac, I was so weak I had to be helped from one room to another. My nerves were shattered and my digestion so poor I was almost afraid to eat anything. But now I am in perfect health and will always be grateful to Tanlac."

"There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac. It enables the stomach to turn the food into healthy blood, bone and muscle, purifies the system and helps you back to normal weight. Get a bottle today at any good druggist.—Advertisement."

A Hairbreadth Difference.

D. W. Hufford, an engineer for the public service commission, was standing silently in a deep brown study.

"What's on your mind?" inquired a friend.

"Hair," replied Hufford. "I don't know whether to have my hair stretched or to have my hair cut." Indianapolis News.

10 Cents Insures Fresh Charm to Old Shawls

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES—dyes or tints as you wish

Status. Barr—"Did you say he is a bosom friend?" Carr—"More than that; he's a hip friend."—American Legion Weekly.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

COPPER ALWAYS IN DEMAND

Durability of the Metal Has Made It Almost Indispensable for Variety of Purposes.

The many uses of copper may be imagined from the size of the output. It is said that if the United States were to cease producing, either all the trolley cars or all the armies of the world would cease operating, for outside of Michigan and Montana there is not enough copper in existence to supply both.

In the building trade copper is in great demand on account of its durability. At first glance the amount of copper seems to be negligible in comparison with iron and steel. It is used for such things as roofing, flashings, cornices, gutters, drain pipes, leaders and ventilators. These are nearly all copper in the large office buildings. In the Woolworth building, in New York, which is today the world's tallest skyscraper, there is approximately a million pounds of copper used for roofings, elevators and interior decoration.

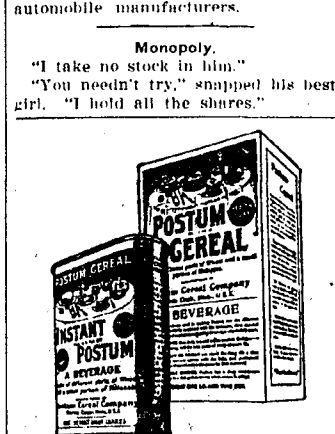

Bright Idea. An Evansville young man, whenever out of the city, instead of writing to his best girl, sends her every few days a box of candy. She is delighted with his plan and boasts of it to her girl friends, who straightway hint to their admirers to do the same.

One of the admirers went to the first-named young man on his return from one of these trips and made complaint of this habit of his. "The other girls are expecting us fellows to do it, too," he said. "We can't see why you do it. It's expensive and—"

"Yes," admitted the candy sender, "it is expensive, but it's mighty safe. Candy could never tell tales in a breach-of-promise suit."—Indianapolis News.

Precedents save thinking.

Monopoly. "I take no stock in him." "You needn't try," snapped his best girl. "I hold all the shares."

SLEEPLESS nights and daytime irritation, when caused by coffee drinking, often require a call on the grocer to avoid a later call on the doctor.

Postum, instead of coffee, has brought restful nights and brighter days for thousands of people—together with complete satisfaction to taste.

You will enjoy the full, rich flavor and aroma of Postum, and nerves will be free from any possibility of irritation from coffee's drug, caffeine. You can begin the test today with an order to your grocer.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

Postum for Health "There's a Reason"

Made by Postum Cereal Co., Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.

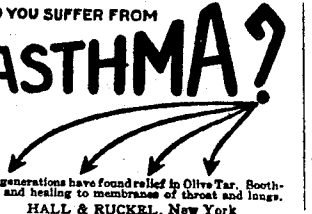

Modernize Your WALLS

For your decorating with the nationally accepted wall tint in beautiful nature colors—artistic, sanitary, economical, and durable.

Alabastine

Instead of Kalsomine or Wall Paper

DO YOU SUFFER FROM ASTHMA? PARKER'S HAIR BALMAM Remove Dandruff, Stimulate, Restore Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair. 6c and 15c at Druggists. Hines Chem. Works, Jacksonville, N. Y.

10 Cents Insures Fresh Charm to Old Shawls

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES—dyes or tints as you wish

Status. Barr—"Did you say he is a bosom friend?" Carr—"More than that; he's a hip friend."—American Legion Weekly.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

COPPER ALWAYS IN DEMAND

Durability of the Metal Has Made It Almost Indispensable for Variety of Purposes.

The many uses of copper may be imagined from the size of the output. It is said that if the United States were to cease producing, either all the trolley cars or all the armies of the world would cease operating, for outside of Michigan and Montana there is not enough copper in existence to supply both.

In the building trade copper is in great demand on account of its durability. At first glance the amount of copper seems to be negligible in comparison with iron and steel. It is used for such things as roofing, flashings, cornices, gutters, drain pipes, leaders and ventilators. These are nearly all copper in the large office buildings. In the Woolworth building, in New York, which is today the world's tallest skyscraper, there is approximately a million pounds of copper used for roofings, elevators and interior decoration.

Bright Idea. An Evansville young man, whenever out of the city, instead of writing to his best girl, sends her every few days a box of candy. She is delighted with his plan and boasts of it to her girl friends, who straightway hint to their admirers to do the same.

One of the admirers went to the first-named young man on his return from one of these trips and made complaint of this habit of his. "The other girls are expecting us fellows to do it, too," he said. "We can't see why you do it. It's expensive and—"

"Yes," admitted the candy sender, "it is expensive, but it's mighty safe. Candy could never tell tales in a breach-of-promise suit."—Indianapolis News.

Precedents save thinking.

Monopoly. "I take no stock in him." "You needn't try," snapped his best girl. "I hold all the shares."

SLEEPLESS nights and daytime irritation, when caused by coffee drinking, often require a call on the grocer to avoid a later call on the doctor.

Postum, instead of coffee, has brought restful nights and brighter days for thousands of people—together with complete satisfaction to taste.

You will enjoy the full, rich flavor and aroma of Postum, and nerves will be free from any possibility of irritation from coffee's drug, caffeine. You can begin the test today with an order to your grocer.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

Postum for Health "There's a Reason"

Made by Postum Cereal Co., Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.

FARMERS and WORKING MEN!

Prices and Wages are Down

SO HERE GOES

Why shouldn't Mr. Merchant come down? From October 26th until November 4th my stock to be reduced to the desired limit.

1 lot of gingham and percale aprons, now.....	98c
Dark and light outings, per yard, now.....	18c
Bleached cotton, per yard, now....	15c
Percales, per yard, now.....	18c
1 lot of fancy crepes, per yard, now.....	25c
Fancy plaid gingham, per yard, now.....	23c
1 lot of Cretonne, fancy figures and wide, per yard.....	23c
1 lot of Ladies' silk waists, your choice in sizes and colors, now....	3.98
My BLANKET AND COMFORTER SALE
was the biggest success I ever had at this early part of the season. Nearly closed out. Prices did it.
1 lot blankets gray or tan borders, now.....	1.69
1 lot of comforters, now.....	2.19
1 lot in a better, higher grade, now.....	2.69
3 pairs of Men's wool sox, now....	99c
2 pairs of heavy ribbed sox, red heels and toes, now.....	1.25
Men's winter caps from $1.25 and up.
Boys caps 99c and up.
Boys hockey caps 50c and up.

MILLINERY TO BE CLOSED OUT

My entire line of millinery to be closed out at once. Latest styles, consisting of black, red and navy in velvets and velours, values $5.00 to $6.50, now $3.98.

1 lot values from $4 to $5 for....	2.98
Stock not large, first come first served.
1 lot of boy's all wool suits colors brown, blue, reindeer for $4.98 and.....	5.85
1 lot of ladies shoes, over 100 pairs high heels, $5.00 to $6.50 values for.....	3.98
1 lot ladies shoes. Good sizes at.....	2.48
Also my entire line of Ladies oxfords, consisting of Vici kid and patents, in Havana brown, dark brown, and black, in low heels and also the flapper styles. $5 to $6 values for.....
	4.45
1 lot from $4.50 to $5 for.....	2.98

Mothers here's your chance. Latest styles in baby shoes and scuffs for school wear in tans and blacks. A big reduction will help you out at this critical time.

Men's and Engineers gauntlet gloves, the noted Eisendraph gloves. $1.75 values for $1.25 and $2 to $2.50 for $1.69, not lined. Suit cases to suit the most fastidious, in size and color. The price will sell them.

Boy's leather gauntlets at.....	36c
Jersey gloves for boys.....	15c

Men's mackinaws and overcoats; Step in and get the idea of what I am doing. Brassieres, pink satin nicely trimmed with lace for 69c. These are special so don't be too late. Ask to see them.

3 skeins of yarn any color lady for $1.00.

Buy your yarns now as prices are advancing. Follow the crowd at this sale and you will agree with me that prices have done wonders for you and me.

Ladies outing flannel night gowns, now.....	89c
1 lot embroidered night gowns, now.....	1.19
Mothers, fleeced lined union suits for boy's, sizes from 2 to 16 years 98c and.....	1.19
Girls union suits sizes 2 to 16 yrs. 98c and.....	1.19
Men's heavy fleeced union suits.....	1.25
Ladies, my notion table is complete—but-tons, elastic, tape, all widths, black and white. 1 lot ribbons.
Men's Wool Army pants.....	2.98
1 lot Men's felt shoes for cold feet, $3.50 value, now.....	2.89
Ladies felt shoes, vici kid, foxed $3.50 value, now.....	2.69
36 pairs felt slippers, leather soles and heels, $1.35 value, now during sale.....	95c

FRANK DREESE

New Store on Cedar Street
GRAYLING, MICH.

YOUR Grafonola dollar now goes further than it has gone for years. Prices are the lowest, savings the greatest, terms the easiest.

You can buy any one of the latest model Columbia Grafonolas for less money than you would pay for an older design of phonograph without any of the exclusive Columbia improvements.

A very small first payment delivers any model you select. You enjoy it as you pay for it on our liberal monthly terms.

Start right away. Come in tomorrow.

Olaf Sorenson & Sons Music Dept.

Register Sat. Be Ready to Vote

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Lars Brolin, late of the Village of Grayling, Crawford County, Michigan, to Richard D. Connine, of the Village of Grayling, Crawford County, Michigan, dated May 15th, A. D. 1920, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Crawford County, Michigan, on the 27th day of July, A. D. 1920, at 2 o'clock, p. m., in Liber H. of mortgages on page 334, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid, at the date of this notice, for principal and interest the sum of two hundred and twenty-eight and 23/100 ($228.23) Dollars, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt secured by such mortgage, or any part thereof;

Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and of the statutes of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 30th day of December, A. D. 1922, at 12 o'clock noon, Central Standard time, at the easternly or Michigan Avenue entrance to the Crawford County building in the Village of Grayling, Crawford County, Michigan, (that being the building where the Circuit Court for the County of Crawford is held), I shall sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage and all legal costs, including statutory attorney's fee, which said premises are situated in the Township of Grayling, Crawford County, Michigan, and described as follows:

Commencing at a point, one thousand three hundred twenty-nine (1329) feet east and sixty six (66) feet north of the South one-eighth (1-8) post between sections seven (7) and eight (8), and running thence north five hundred eighty-nine feet thence west one hundred forty-eight (148) feet, thence south five hundred eighty nine (589) feet, thence east one hundred forty-eight (148) feet to the place of beginning, containing two acres of land, all being a part of the South one-half (S. W. 1/4) of the southwest quarter (S. W. 1/4) of section eight (8) of township twenty-six (26) North of Range Three (3) West.

Dated at Grayling, Michigan, September 22nd, A. D. 1922.

Richard D. Connine,

Harry J. Connine, Attorney for Mortgages, 320-32 Hammon Bldg., Detroit, Michigan. 9-28-13.

READ THE CLASSIFIED ADS

FARM BUREAU NOTES.

(Continued from first page.)

and keeps longer, as well as being better for us.

28. Milk makes fighters. Europe, in her turn of countless years ago, was always conquered by dairy-fed tribes. The weak races of the Far East and the South are examples of listless, easily conquered peoples who have never known the energy diets of the harder northern people.

29. Babies die like flies every year because ignorant mothers attempt to improve upon nature with milk substitutes. God made milk for babies.

30. Good cooks everywhere use milk instead of water in making their good dishes. Likewise they use butter instead of lard-like substitutes for the same reason. Nothing can compare with the milk taste.

TO GAIN A GOOD REPUTATION.

The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you appear to be. That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturers has been fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take.

A REMARKABLE RECORD.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon and is safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.

PROBATE NOTICE.

State of Michigan
The Probate Court for the County of Crawford.

In the matter of the Estate of Joseph C. Burton, deceased.
Notice is hereby given that four months from the second day of October A. D. 1922, have been allowed for creditors to present their claims against said deceased to said court for examination and adjustment, and that all creditors of said deceased are required to present their claims to said court, at the probate office, in the Village of Grayling in said county, on or before the fifth day of February, A. D. 1923, and that said claims will be heard by said court on Monday the fifth day of February A. D. 1923, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

Dated October 2nd A. D. 1922.
George Sorenson,
Judge of Probate.

Biliousness

WHEN you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. There is nothing better.

Chamberlain's Tablets

State of Michigan.

The Circuit Court for the County of Crawford, In Chancery.
Elmer Head, Plaintiff,

vs.
Julius Ruby and his wife whose first name is unknown and their unknown heirs, legatees, devisees, and assigns and Sarah J. Baker and her unknown heirs, legatees, devisees and assigns, Defendants.

At a session of said court held at the court house in the village of Grayling, Michigan, on the 16th day of September, A. D., 1922.
Present: Hon. Guy E. Smith, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing to the satisfaction of the court now here that Julius Ruby and his wife whose first name is unknown, cannot be found, and that Sarah J. Baker cannot be found, and that it cannot be ascertained in what state or country said defendants or their unknown heirs legatees, devisees or assigns reside, and that plaintiff, after diligent search and inquiry, has been unable to ascertain whether the above named defendants or either of them left any last will or testament, or whether they have any personal representatives or heirs living and, if so, where they, or any of them reside, or whether their right, title or interest in and to said lands, if any, was disposed of by will, or whether or not in their lifetime they conveyed or assigned any apparent right, title or interest which they, or any of them, might have had in and to said lands or any part thereof.

Therefore, on motion of Hiram R. Smith, attorney for plaintiff, it is ordered that the appearance of said defendants be entered in said cause within three months from this date, that in case of their appearance they shall cause their answer to said bill of complaint to be filed and served in accordance with the rules of court pertaining thereto and the statutes of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided and that in default thereof the said bill be taken as confessed by said defendants and each of them respectively.

It is further ordered that within forty days from date of this order that said plaintiff cause a copy thereof to be published in the Crawford Avalanche, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Crawford and that such publication be continued therein once each week for six weeks in succession.

Guy E. Smith,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

Business Address:
Roscommon, Mich.

The bill of complaint is filed in the above cause to clear the title to the following real estate, located in said county of Crawford: The Southwest quarter of section thirty-six, township twenty-five north, range two west.

10-12-7. Frank Sales,
County Clerk.

State of Michigan.

The Circuit Court for the County of Crawford, In Chancery.
Elmer Head, Plaintiff,

vs.
Verner H. Crankshaw and, his wife whose first name is unknown, and their unknown heirs, legatees, devisees, and assigns, Defendants.

At a session of said court held at the court house in the village of Grayling, Michigan, on the 16th day of September, A. D., 1922.
Present: Hon. Guy E. Smith, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing to the satisfaction of the court now here that Verner H. Crankshaw and his wife whose first name is unknown cannot be found and that it cannot be ascertained in what state or country said defendants or their unknown heirs, legatees, devisees or assigns reside, and that plaintiff after diligent search and inquiry has been unable to ascertain whether the above named defendants or either of them left any last will or testament or whether they have any personal representatives or heirs living and, if so, where they, or any of them, reside, or whether their right, title or interest in and to said lands if any, was disposed of by will or whether or not in their lifetime they conveyed or assigned any apparent right, title or interest which they or any of them might have had in and to said lands or any part thereof.

Therefore, on motion of Hiram R. Smith, attorney for plaintiff, it is ordered that the appearance of said defendants be entered in said cause within three months from this date, that in case of their appearance they shall cause their answer to said bill of complaint to be filed and served in accordance with the rules of court pertaining thereto and the statutes of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided and that in default thereof the said bill be taken as confessed by said defendants and each of them respectively.

It is further ordered that within forty days from date of this order that said plaintiff cause a copy thereof to be published in the Crawford Avalanche, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Crawford and that such publication be continued therein once each week for six weeks in succession.

Guy E. Smith,
Circuit Judge.

Hiram R. Smith,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

Business Address:
Roscommon, Mich.

The bill of complaint is filed in the above entitled cause to clear the title to the following described real estate located in said county of Crawford: The Southeast Quarter of the Northwest Quarter of section twenty-nine, township twenty-five north, range two west.

10-12-7. Frank Sales,
County Clerk.

A GOOD PHYSIC.

When you want a physic that is mild and gentle in effect, easy to take and certain to cure take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are excellent.

A racking nervous headache? MENTHOLATUM chases it away.

HOW BETTER THAN PILLS?

The question has been asked in what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

DIRECTORY

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL

PROBATE COURT

Crawford County, Mich.
Sessions:—First and Third Monday of every month.

Hours:—9 o'clock a. m. to 12 noon.
1 o'clock p. m. to 5 o'clock p. m.

Any information and first Proceeding in connection with this Court will be had at my office at Sorenson Bros.

GEORGE SORENSON

Judge of Probate.

BANK OF GRAYLING

Successor to Crawford County Exchange Bank.

MARIUS HANSON

Proprietor

Interest paid on certificates of deposit. Collections promptly attended to. All accommodations extended that are consistent with safe and conservative banking.

Marius Hanson, Cashier.

Dr. C. R. KEYPORT

Physician and Surgeon

Office next to Peterson's Jewelry Store.

Office Hours:—2-4, 7-8 p. m. Sundays by appointments.

C. A. Canfield, D. D. S.

DENTIST

OFFICE:

over Alexander's Law Office on Michigan Avenue.

Office hours: 8:30-11 a. m. 1-3:30 p. m.

Dr. J. J. Love

DENTIST

Phone 1271

Hours: 9 to 11:30 a. m., 1 to 5 p. m.

Office: Over Simpson Co.'s grocery.

HOMER L. FITCH

Prosecuting Attorney

Crawford County

General Practice

Surety, Bonds. Insurance.

C. J. HATHAWAY

OPTOMETRIST

Suite 223-224, American Bank Bldg.

Pontiac, Mich.

Office hours 8:30 to 12:00; 1 to 5 p. m.; and by appointment. Phone 267.

Practice confined exclusively to refraction of the eye.

F. J. SPENCER

Lovells, Michigan.

Contractor and Builder

If you contemplate doing building, it will pay you to see me. Best of references. All work guaranteed. 6-22-9.

O. PALMER

Office in Avalanche Building.

KELSDEN & KELSDEN

Mondays and Wednesdays from 2:30 to 9:00 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, Thursdays and Friday all day.

Over Salling Hanson Co.

Hardware Store.

Licensed Chiropractors

Examination and Consultation Free

Hendrickson Bros.

Men's Fine Tailoring

Suits and Overcoats to Order

Phone 614.

Open 8:30 a. m. to 7:00 p. m.

SOUTH SIDE.

PIANO LESSONS.

PROF. C. M. FULLER.

For Beginners and Advanced

Students.

PHONE 902.

FOR OVER 40 YEARS

HALES CATARRH MEDICINE has been used successfully in the treatment of Catarrh.

HALES CATARRH MEDICINE consists of an Ointment which Quickly Relieves by local application, and the Internal Medicine, a Tonic which acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces, thus reducing the inflammation.

Sold by all Druggists.

J. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

RELIEVES—SICK HEADACHE, all for an 88 Tablet, (a vegetable) according to form and strengthens the system of digestion and eliminates. Improves Appetite, Endures Constipation.

Get a 100% Cure. Used for your Sufferers.

Chips off the Old Block. 10 JUNE 1922—Little Men. One-third the regular price. Made of some ingredients, then, easily taken. For children and adults.

A. M. LEWIS, Druggist.