This is borderline spam in my opinion... instructables is not meant to be an advertising space for you to market anything, even if it is a book about how to do something. It is a place to freely share said information on how to do things.

It would be more forgivable if it weren't just a single sentence in the intro and then nothing but a series of uncommented pics.

Make this a (much) better instructable, with details on each step, give free options to get more info instead of buying the book, or be flagged as SPAM.
